

U. S. Backs South Vietnam Peace Proposal

PARIS (AP) — The United States threw its support today behind President Nguyen Van Thieu's Christmas peace package and accused North Vietnam of using "high-pressure" tactics in an attempt to impose an incomplete settlement.

As the United States presented its view at the semipublic peace talks, the North Vietnamese announced that Le Duc Tho, who has been negotiating with Henry A. Kissinger, was returning shortly to Hanoi.

The North Vietnamese gave no exact date for the departure of the Politburo member. Tho's decision to leave indicated that in Hanoi's view there was nothing left to discuss with Kissinger for the time being.

Tho and Kissinger broke off their talks Wednesday without announcing any agreement and Kissinger flew back to Washington to report to President Nixon. Kissinger said he and Tho would keep in touch by message.

Henry Isham, representing the United States at the weekly session, threw U.S. support behind the Thieu package for the first time.

It was not immediately clear how this move would tie into the Kissinger-Tho talks on a cease-fire agreement. The United States had avoided official comment on Thieu's own proposal for a cease-fire, but American officials said privately the South Vietnamese plan was clearly unacceptable to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. Both rejected it.

Isham told the Communists it was futile for them to continue clamoring for signature of the cease-fire agreement drafted by Kissinger and Tho in October.

"In our country, the high pressure salesman who tries to obtain immediate signature of an incomplete contract only succeeds in arousing suspicion about the transaction," Isham declared.

South Vietnamese delegate Pham Dang Lam put before the conference the proposals made by Thieu in a speech last Tuesday. They call for a ceasefire, release of military prisoners, withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from South Vietnam and Vietnamese-only negotiations on South Vietnam's political future.

Hanoi and the Viet Cong rejected the package within hours of Thieu's speech, and until today the U.S. government refrained from commenting on them. But Isham told the Communists they offered the opportunity for "a reasonable dialogue" and asked: "Are you prepared to examine these proposals objectively and to engage in serious discussion of them?"

The South Vietnamese delegate, in putting Thieu's proposals before the session, said they were put forward "only with the concern of ending the bloodshed and opening the way to the genuine negotiations which must take place among Vietnamese for the solution of their own problems."

Lam said there can be no correct political solution without direct talks among all the Vietnamese parties "because any solution imposed from the outside, or by one Vietnamese party on the other, would obviously be contrary to the principle of self-determination."

Top Priority Bills Pushed Before Assembly Adjourns

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House is expected to take up a Senate-passed legislative and county officials' pay raise bill today as the lame duck legislature starts its drive toward final adjournment Dec. 21.

A number of other loose ends remain, including final disposition of the state lottery proposal, revision of Ohio's criminal code, and final action on a handful of other measures given a priority tag by legislative leaders.

The House Rules Committee is expected to consider for the third time in a week whether to schedule the Senate-approved lottery amendment for a floor vote. It got six of seven needed votes in the committee Wednesday, and the main sponsor, Sen. Ronald Mottl, D-24 Parma, predicted afterward he would get the seventh today from House Majority Floor Leader Robert Levitt, R-91 Canton.

Levitt, presiding in committee Wednesday in the absence of Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, did not vote but indicated he favors a floor vote on the embattled proposal.

In other developments Wednesday: —The House and Senate completed action on a constitutional amendment slated for the May, 1973, ballot which would extend to municipal judges the right to receive pay increases during their elected terms—the same as state judges now do.

—The House reconsidered and passed two of three constitutional amendments it rejected Tuesday. One provides for the elimination of an antiquated constitutional reference to a Supreme Court commission. The other repeals unenforced prohibitions against certain persons running for public office.

—Senators virtually completed legislative action on a bill deleting from Ohio law certain provisions on the employment of women now said to be unconstitutional. Democrats sought unsuccessfully in floor amendments to extend the minimum wage to all persons presently not covered by it, and to restrict the number of hours an employee can be required to work overtime.

—The House reconsidered and defeated for a second time a proposal to revise legislative procedures and provide a constitutional change to allow members of the Legislature to be paid for their expenses.

The House action occurred almost at the same time but apparently was not connected with the decision of the Senate Ways and Means Committee to reconsider the pay raise bill it rejected earlier this week. The committee added to the bill a provision for a legislative ethics committee, included township trustees among those getting raises—then sped it to the Senate floor where it promptly received 27-3 approval.

Raises for senators and representatives would be in the form of "per diem" payments of $25 a day, and would total about $1,875 a year maximum. The bill sets a limit on the payments to 90 days in the odd-numbered years starting biennial sessions and 60 days in even-numbered years. Sponsors said the bill was worded to describe the increases as "compensation" to get around the ban on legislators being paid for their expenses.

Sen. Paul Gillmor, R-12 Tiffin, won approval of an amendment to establish a 12-member, bi-partisan ethics committee to set and enforce ethics standards for legislators and empowered to expel members if it chose. Six from each party named by legislative leaves, would make up the committee.

The first one would be established in the 110th General Assembly which convenes New Year's Day. Democrats, who have been pushing a broader ethics bill without much luck the past two years, commended Gillmor for offering the amendment. Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, called it "an excellent beginning."

Sen. Robert Corts, R-13 Elyria, one of the three who voted against the bill, offered an unsuccessful floor amendment to delete members of the legislature from the pay raise list. He called it "unconscionable" for members to vote themselves a raise after being elected Nov. 7 and before they are sworn in for new terms. Corts, who introduced the original bill to raise county officials' pay, had his name removed from the bill.

Voting against it along with Corts were Sens. Paul Matia, R-25 Lakewood, and Mariene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo. Sen. Howard C. Cook, R-1 Toledo, supported the Corts amendment but voted for the bill.

Truman Weaker; Kidneys, Lungs Cause Concern

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman continued to slip overnight in his fight to stay alive and his doctors said today his condition is "very serious."

Hospital officials said the 88-year-old former president had a restless night and was unaware of anyone speaking to him. His kidney function, a major source of concern along with a weakened heart, was reported to be declining.

Dr. Wallace Graham said, "President Truman is very serious but vital signs remains fairly stable, therefore he is not critical."

At 10 a.m. EST, Truman's pulse was 96, his blood pressure 138-60 and his temperature 100.

Truman was admitted nine days ago to Research Hospital and Medical Center after he displayed symptoms of lung congestion.

Graham, Truman's personal physician, had reported Wednesday that the former president was "weaker ... and he is beginning to show signs of renal (kidney) impairment and early pulmonary fluid collection."

Graham said today that fluid continues to collect in Truman's right lung.

Later Wednesday, Graham said, "his weakness and lessened responsiveness remain the same as noted earlier."

Margaret Truman Daniel, the 33rd president's daughter, talked with newsmen Wednesday and said she was less optimistic than earlier in the week.

American Trade With China Tops Federal Expectations

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A major limitation on increasing U.S. trade with the People's Republic of China will be the Chinese' "difficulties paying for all they want," a State Department spokesman says.

Otherwise, said Marshall Green, assistant secretary of state, trade already is growing faster than expected when President Nixon met with Chinese leaders last February.

Then it was expected to reach about $12 million this year but has climbed to about $250 million, he said.

Addressing the Cleveland Council on World Affairs Wednesday, Green also said:

—U.S. interest is greater in Northeast Asia than in Southeast Asia.

—U.S.-Japanese trade imbalances of $3.2 billion last year and "at least $4 billion" this year pose a problem "which must be rectified," but long-term relations should remain strong, "although buffeted by nationalism."

"We still are up above what we were when I arrived," she said.

Mrs. Daniel arrived Dec. 6 when Truman was listed as critical after heart and kidney problems developed. He remained critical until Sunday when he rallied and his condition was graded as serious.

Doctors said Truman could "fluctuate within the serious category for some time."

At 10 p. m. EST Wednesday, Truman's pulse was 90, his blood pressure 136-70 and his temperature 101. Pulse and blood pressure were reported within his normal limits.

"I think he's better than last week," Mrs. Daniel said. "It's a question of strength. I think he's not losing that much strength but he's not gaining as much as we would like. Every little bit takes a toll."

A hospital spokesman said the renal impairment reported Wednesday meant that Truman's kidneys were continuing to cleanse his blood adequately but "they were not purifying the blood to the extent they have been." He said pulmonary fluid collection indicated lung congestion.

Mrs. Daniel and 87-year-old Bess Truman visited the former president Wednesday. Mrs. Daniel said, "He was awake and he smiled at me. He didn't speak. He was getting sleepy."

Mrs. Daniel said she has made tentative reservations to return Friday to her New York home.

"We'll just have to wait and see," she said.

—And in world politics generally, summitry will continue, "a feature of the jet age;" the trend is toward "competitive image-building" instead of wars; and "it is not a Cold War any more; it's something else for which we have no label."

Northeast Asia is of "paramount interest" to the United States, Green said, because the interests of major world powers converge there—on Japan, on Siberian oil, on the centers of China's industry.

"This is going to be the place where the weather of the world is going to be determined," Green said.

This nation, he said, in helping Vietnam and Southeast Asia, was "drawn into an area where we did not have the same basic national interests" as in Cuba or Korea.

Americans want an end to U.S. "overinvolvement in the world," he said, and recognize that "nationalism is a major force."

Lunar Trip Over

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Eugene A. Cernan stepped off the moon today, leaving in lunar sand perhaps the last footprint of the generation which first challenged space. Exploration by the Apollos ended as it began, "with peace and hope for all mankind."

"As I take these last steps from the surface for some time into the future to come, I'd just like to record that America's challenge of today has forged man's destiny of tomorrow," Cernan said moments before entering the Apollo 17 landing ship.

Then he added: "And as we leave the moon and Taurus-Littrow we leave as we came, and, God willing, we shall return, with peace and hope for all mankind."

Turning, Cernan then followed his crewmate, Harrison H. Schmitt up the ladder into the cabin of their craft Challenger.

There they rested after preparing to blast off the lunar surface in the late afternoon and rejoin the third man of Apollo 17, Ronald E. Evans. He has been orbiting the moon in the command ship America since Monday's lunar landing.

The climb of Schmitt and Cernan from the lunar surface ended a historic decade of exploration which began May 25, 1961, with a challenge to the nation by the late President John F. Kennedy.

Apollo's last surface exploration was the program's most ambitious and successful. Cernan and Schmitt, the 11th and 12th men to walk the moon, spent more time on the surface—a total of 22 hours, five minutes; made the longest single excursion in time, seven hours, 37 minutes; and covered the most distance in three excursions, a total of more than 22 miles.

They collected more than 300 pounds of moon rock and soil, including samples of intriguing orange dust never before seen on the moon. The astronauts erected an atomic-powered science station which is already sending data to earth and explored types of lunar formations never before visited.

Big Ammo Dump At Saigon Blown Up By Red Sappers

SAIGON (AP) — Two sappers blew up an ammunition dump seven miles southeast of Saigon early today, rocking the capital with a chain reaction of massive blasts that shattered windows in the city.

Twelve hours after the first explosion, 1,000 tons of shells, bombs, small arms ammunition and napalm were still detonating. Tall columns of black smoke blurred the sky.

"There's nothing we can do to control it," said a South Vietnamese officer sheltering in a ditch outside the big Thanh Tuy Ha Depot. "We've just got to let it blow itself out."

'London Flu' Outbreak Reported

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Cases of "London Flu," a strain of Type A influenza, have been detected in five U.S. cities and three Air Force installations, the National Center for Disease Control reports.

Only isolated cases have been found in the five cities—Memphis, Tenn.; Kansas City, Kan.; Baltimore; Anchorage, Alaska; and Seattle.

But Air Force health officials are investigating outbreaks of the strain at Ent Air Force Base, Lowry Air Force Base and the U.S. Air Force Academy, all in Colorado.

The CDC says new trains of Type A flu have been under surveillance for some time to determine how much they are spreading. The CDC reported last fall it could not say whether widespread outbreaks of the "London Flu" would occur this winter.

Another variant of Type A influenza is Hong Kong flu, which killed 27,900 persons in the United States in 1968-69.

The CDC says vaccines now available offer more protection against the Hong Kong Flu and should aid against the new virus.

The center recommends that the vaccine be administered to elderly and chronically ill persons, who face the greatest risk if they contract influenza.

The two saboteurs were spotted and fired on, but they apparently escaped. They left behind time charges that went off four hours later.

A spokesman for the Saigon command said only four soldiers were wounded by the explosions. Four civilians were cut by flying glass in Saigon.

"One section of the dump exploded and caused a chain reaction which destroyed several other sections," said the spokesman. Although other military sources said about 15,000 tons of ammunition were stored in the dump, the spokesman said only 1,000 tons were destroyed. The storage bunkers are separated by steel, concrete and sandbags.

The dump is situated in open country in an abandoned rubber plantation on the opposite side of the river from Saigon.

Several massive explosions shattered windows of shops and hotels on the riverfront. Doors were blown off their hinges and ceilings came down. People out early flung themselves to the ground, fearing the city was under a rocket attack.

The Saigon command reported a total of 69 enemy attacks across the country from 6 a.m. Wednesday to 6

American Trade With China Tops Federal Expectations

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A major limitation on increasing U.S. trade with the People's Republic of China will be the Chinese' "difficulties paying for all they want," a State Department spokesman says.

Otherwise, said Marshall Green, assistant secretary of state, trade already is growing faster than expected when President Nixon met with Chinese leaders last February.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices drifted lower today for the third straight session, and analysts termed the slump a technical readjustment. Apprehension over lack of a Vietnam cease-fire agreement also was cited.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.61 to 1026.87. Declining issues outnumbered advancing ones by more than 7 to 4 in fairly slow trading.

The breakdown in negotiations over North Atlantic air routes brought airline stocks under heavy selling pressure. As of Feb. 1, international carriers will be free to set whatever fares they wish on all routes.

Active issues on the Big Board included Gardner-Denver Co., which lost 1/8 to 26 on a block trade; American Telephone, up 1/8 to 52 after the settlement of an arbitrage action; and Winnebago, a casualty of the recent investor movement away from mobilehome issues. It was down 1 1/2 to 25.

The noon New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,400 common stocks was off .12 to 64.67 and the price-change index on the American Stock Exchange was down .04 to 26.57.

Government Cutoff Delayed In Welfare Outlay To States

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has agreed to delay for three months its threat to withhold nearly $700 million in federal funds to states failing to clear their welfare rolls of ineligible and overpaid recipients.

The decision gives states more maneuvering room in their effort to negotiate a significant compromise. It also means that $125 million in federal spending cuts will have to be applied to other programs if the government is to stay within the announced budget ceiling of $250 billion in fiscal 1973.

The delay of the federal penalties until April 1 was announced to state welfare administrators Wednesday by John G. Veneman, undersecretary of health, education and welfare.

He told them at the end of two days of secret meetings that HEW will not retreat on the crackdown, however, because it believes "the concept is appropriate."

During the extension, Veneman said, HEW will meet with state officials to discuss proposed changes in federal regulations which they believe hamper their efforts to improve management of public assistance.

State administrators, some of them threatening lawsuits if the crackdown takes effect, have argued that the proposal has deterred a cleanup of relief rolls because the more ineligible recipients they find, the heavier they would be penalized.

Some of the administrators, including California's Robert B.

Carleson, have suggested that a new base statistical period, accompanied by in-depth investigations of eligibility, be established as the yardstick for measuring performance and improvements later next year.

The effect of the three-month extension is to delay the first withholding of federal funds originally slated to begin Jan. 1.

The amounts scheduled to be levied against each state are in proportion to the percentage of overpaid recipients discovered in mandatory, state-conducted samplings the last half of 1971.

In the case of 21 states not completing at least 85 per cent of their assigned samplings, the penalty would be based on the nationwide welfare misspending rate of 8.3 per cent.

Mixed Naval Vessel Crew Ends Shakedown Cruise

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The one-day shakedown cruise of the first Navy ship with female crew members has shown women can do the work, romance is harder to suppress than salty language and seasickness knows no sex line.

When the white hospital ship USS Sanctuary pulled into port Wednesday, there was the usual scramble down the gangplank by liberty-bound sailors. But beneath some of the foul weather gear and dungarees were 40 women who made Naval history by assuming posts alongside the vessel's 480 male crewmen.

They are part of a Naval pilot program to evaluate the use of women in every aspect of noncombat sea duty, including work as deck hands, cooks, barbers, clerks and even deck officers.

"The women do their share," said Walter Markwordt, who works with four women in the galley. "They want equality, so we give it to 'em. We've got one girl that can lift 50-pound potato sacks—no sweat."

Even on the deck, where the routine includes swabbing decks, hauling lines and removing cargo, eight women have by choice taken their place among the so-called "deck apes."

However, most women found their way to indoor desk jobs or hospital corps posts.

"It's not really equality," said freckled redhead Marilyn Tanney, who did deck work before working in the ship's laundry. "The men try to see how much you can take when you're lifting heavy things. There's no way the women can lift as much."

"It was the greatest experience, being out there on our own like a big family," said 19-year-old Lisa Tigar, of Oxford, N.J. Many women, like Lisa, say their duties come first and friendship will be the extent of their relationship with male counterparts.

But Deana Trexler, a 24-year-old hospital corpswoman from Sacramento, Calif., said frankly, "We date on ship and have had several shipboard romances. A few girls even have gone through more than one guy."

International Air Fares To Be Cut

GENEVA (AP) — Lower air fares are in prospect for transatlantic travelers following the breakdown of the international airlines' price-fixing machinery.

The International Air Transport Association announced Wednesday that scheduled airlines flying between the United States and Europe can set their own fares in open competition starting Feb. 1.

The 40 airlines flying the North Atlantic and major connecting routes failed to agree on new rates after five months of negotiations. American lines wanted higher fares to offset the business they are losing to cheap-rate charter lines; the Europeans argued that the answer was lower fares to fill up the big planes they are now flying with many empty seats.

The Europeans are expected to announce sizable rate reductions, possibly with payment of all or part of the fare required 90 days in advance. The new fares will have to be approved by the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board as well as aviation authorities at the European end of the flights.

A IATA spokesman said further talks to arrange a unified schedule of fares "are nonconceivable, at least until next summer."

Knut Hammarskjold, director-general of IATA, blamed the governments for the breakdown in the rate system, saying they had "met only part of their responsibilities to the public and the airlines" by failing to set floor prices for the charter companies.

Government Cutoff Delayed In Welfare Outlay To States

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices drifted lower today for the third straight session, and analysts termed the slump a technical readjustment. Apprehension over lack of a Vietnam cease-fire agreement also was cited.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.61 to 1026.87. Declining issues outnumbered advancing ones by more than 7 to 4 in fairly slow trading.

The breakdown in negotiations over North Atlantic air routes brought airline stocks under heavy selling pressure. As of Feb. 1, international carriers will be free to set whatever fares they wish on all routes.

Active issues on the Big Board included Gardner-Denver Co., which lost 1/8 to 26 on a block trade; American Telephone, up 1/8 to 52 after the settlement of an arbitrage action; and Winnebago, a casualty of the recent investor movement away from mobilehome issues. It was down 1 1/2 to 25.

The noon New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,400 common stocks was off .12 to 64.67 and the price-change index on the American Stock Exchange was down .04 to 26.57.

Incorporation Proceedings Started For Senior Center

The Pickaway County Committee on Aging met at the Senior Center at 11 a.m. Wednesday, December 13, Rev. Donald Makarius, presiding. Present were: John Miranda, Russ Palm, Etha Mae Wolford, Pauline Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon DeNike, Eleanor Skaggs, Wayne Hines and staff members, Vera Saunders and Twyla Lorentz. Four others were excused.

Pickaway County Commissioner Hines reported that the papers for processing the incorporation of the Center were in the hands of Dick Gerhardt, County prosecuting attorney. He also asked for names of possible new members for the Committee on Aging to replace some who can no longer serve. It was voted to elect Mrs. Sue Lewis, PICCA nurse, to replace Mrs. Tina Clark who is now working Columbus and no longer connected with PICCA.

Mrs. Lewis was unable to attend but sent her report on the progress of the Congregate Meals program which will begin the first week in January. This is an experimental program for 6 months only, for which PICCA is the sponsor. The Senior Center is cooperating in obtaining names, helping with some volunteer assistance. The purpose of the program is to provide hot, nourishing meals for 25 elderly people who live alone and are not eating balanced diets. Transportation will be provided to bring the people to the Trinity Lutheran Parish House at noon, Monday through Friday.

Additional benefits to be provided will be counseling on any problems the individuals might have, recreation and social contacts with other people, and whatever assistance is found to be necessary. Mrs. Vera Saunders is the Senior Staff coordinator for this project, working with Mrs. Lewis of PICCA.

Mrs. Lorentz, Senior Center Director reported that the work on Project FIND has been completed. 144 cards were processed and 55 of these were considered possibly eligible for food assistance. The Welfare department will give the Center a report in the near future as to how many people actually did apply and were certified. Four staff members and 4 volunteer senior citizens worked on the project from the women can lift as much."

"It was the greatest experience, being out there on our own like a big family," said 19-year-old Lisa Tigar, of Oxford, N.J. Many women, like Lisa, say their duties come first and friendship will be the extent of their relationship with male counterparts.

But Deana Trexler, a 24-year-old hospital corpswoman from Sacramento, Calif., said frankly, "We date on ship and have had several shipboard romances. A few girls even have gone through more than one guy."

International Air Fares To Be Cut

GENEVA (AP) — Lower air fares are in prospect for transatlantic travelers following the breakdown of the international airlines' price-fixing machinery.

The International Air Transport Association announced Wednesday that scheduled airlines flying between the United States and Europe can set their own fares in open competition starting Feb. 1.

The 40 airlines flying the North Atlantic and major connecting routes failed to agree on new rates after five months of negotiations. American lines wanted higher fares to offset the business they are losing to cheap-rate charter lines; the Europeans argued that the answer was lower fares to fill up the big planes they are now flying with many empty seats.

The Europeans are expected to announce sizable rate reductions, possibly with payment of all or part of the fare required 90 days in advance. The new fares will have to be approved by the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board as well as aviation authorities at the European end of the flights.

A IATA spokesman said further talks to arrange a unified schedule of fares "are nonconceivable, at least until next summer."

Knut Hammarskjold, director-general of IATA, blamed the governments for the breakdown in the rate system, saying they had "met only part of their responsibilities to the public and the airlines" by failing to set floor prices for the charter companies.

Nickel Phone Call Still Exists

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — It still costs only a nickel in Wapakoneta, Ohio, to call a friend from a pay telephone.

Or, you can go home and call several friends for as little as 15 cents a day. "We haven't had a rate increase here since 1951, and I think that was a dollar per customer," said V. G. Hudson, president of the Independent Telephone Service Co.

Telephone Service, serving 8,000 customers in a 10-square-mile area around Wapakoneta, is one of 57 independent telephone companies in Ohio.

"We operate our company very economically... we simply do a better job of management," Hudson said of the companies low rates.

"That's gotta be one of America's last bargains—that, along with the 10-cent Staten Island ferry ride," remarked Ohio Bell spokesman, Tom Cotton.

Ohio Bell is asking the Public Utilities Commission for a 34 per cent rate increase. If approved, the increase would boost monthly rates across the state from $1.95 to $3.

"To compare the two companies would be like comparing apples with oranges," said Cotton. "That (the Wapakoneta company) has to be one of the last telephone companies in the United States still charging a nickel for pay calls."

Wider calling areas, trunking facilities, personnel salaries, equipment maintenance were factors contributing to the larger companies higher rates, he said.

Telephone Service employs 18 telephone operators, 17 servicemen and one management person—"That's me," said Hudson. Salaries, he said were "very comparable" with other companies.

Established in 1884, the independent company is owned by 33 stockholders, "all living in the Wapakoneta area... all customers."

Monthly charges are $4.75 for a private home phone, $7 for a business phone.

Telephone installation is $1— and nearly all new customers receive service the same day, Hudson said.

Besides costing less, Hudson said the advantage of a small telephone firm was the "personal touch." Complaints get immediate attention, service calls are answered promptly.

The company publishes its own telephone book—"with Neil Armstrong on the cover." Armstrong, first man on the moon, is a Wapakoneta native.

Independent phone companies contract with Bell for calls outside their areas.

"We get a lot of cards and letters from people stopping through who say more companies ought to be run like ours," Hudson said. "We're pretty proud of us."

Hunting Dog Finds Quarry In Milk Can

MEADVILLE, Mo. (AP) — How many hunting dogs will go after a quail and bring back a three-gallon cream can?

Art Heaton of Meadville has one. Clark Milligan, an assistant at the Fountain Grove Wildlife Area near here, gave this report to the State Department of Conservation: Milligan and his brother, John, were to meet at Heaton's home.

They arrived to find Heaton's dog wandering around with a three-gallon cream can stuck on its head.

The can wouldn't budge. They tried a little soap and water. Finally, Clark Milligan drove to Meadville and bought a chisel and hammer.

They got the can off and in it was a dead quail.

It turned out that Heaton had hit the quail with his pickup and it stuck in the grill. He removed the dead bird and tossed it in the can — and the dog went after it.

Civil War Cannonball Wasn't A Plaything

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — "Why, Nanny, we played with that," a 7-year-old told her grandmother after a live Civil War cannonball found here was intentionally detonated by authorities.

Mrs. Annette Williams of Selma said Monday she found the cannonball Saturday when she went to check her water meter. "It was some 12 to 15 feet from my house," she said.

Mobility Aids To Prosperity

Mobility of the population long has been noted as one of the factors which contribute to growth and prosperity. People free to move about as they wish help put together the pieces of the economic puzzle by responding to new opportunities and abandoning those which have run their course.

Europe provides marked contrasts in mobility and the effect its presence or lack has on the relative economies. Western Europe has a high degree of mobility, with many thousands of workers welcomed into countries like Switzerland and West Germany where labor shortages in skilled trades are acute.

East Europe has low mobility. The systems of centralized planning by the state and closely guarded borders work against the desires of the people to change locations or jobs. The contrast in economic activity between the two halves of the continent is dramatic. The West is thriving, the East is surviving. Poland recently decided to relax its border restrictions somewhat, presumably to show its support for the policy of detente. It was not a clear case of East-West confrontation, anyway, since the border involved was with East Germany.

Nevertheless, the people of Poland responded as though their lives depended upon the relaxed rules, which in some cases may not be too far from the truth. Warsaw initially had estimated the number of crossings into East Germany over a short period might total one million. Instead, 18 million crossings were made, many of the travelers taking their money with them.

Poland's officials underestimated the popularity of getting one border closer to the West. They have since placed a $50 limit on funds which can be taken out of the country, but the border is still well-traveled by millions who had not experienced the jobs of mobility in years.

Sweden's Downtrodden Not Happy

A public opinion poll taken in Sweden has found a layer of tarnish descending on the western world's foremost champion of welfarism. The throttling of individual initiative and the heavy hand of central bureaucracy have convinced a number of Swedes they would rather live elsewhere.

Sixteen percent believe they would be better rewarded for their labors in other lands. One of eight expressed extreme dissatisfaction with life in Sweden, and 100,000 said they had made plans to emigrate to western democracies.

Most of those who expressed the greatest dissatisfaction were among the better educated and professional groups — college graduates, small businessmen, executives and other professionals. The people who provide the driving force, create the jobs and otherwise form the leadership in any society.

These are the people who most miss their loss of opportunity to exercise initiative and are most frustrated by central planners. Sweden has much to lose if they follow through on their desire to leave. The western world has much to gain if it listens to their laments.

War And Morality

By JEFFREY HART

In a way it's not really sporting to pick on an anti-war statement issued by the U.S. Catholic bishops; but, for what it is worth, they just made it under the wire with a demand that the bombing cease, and so on: though practically everyone else knew that the war is practically over. And of course the bombing-halt demand was balanced with an obvious bureaucratic compromise, a plea for a just peace. This escape hatch rendered the whole statement pointless: Nixon could claim that he was bombing because in his opinion that was the way to achieve a just peace.

But in this and other comments on the way, the bishops, the National Council of Churches and such groups do raise questions which I find devilishly difficult to resolve. They do not rest their claim to be heeded on special military or political expertise. They rest it on their authority as judges of morality. But the morality or immorality of a complex and historically entangled event like the Vietnamese war seems almost impossible to determine, and the traditional criteria when applied turn out to be less than illuminating.

Moralists are fond of citing, for example, the traditional principle of "proportionality." This means that the result to be achieved by the war must be such as to outweigh the death and destruction all wars involve.

But this sort of ledger is almost impossible to draw up — as, indeed, is tacitly admitted by the critics of the war, who like to say that we are fighting to preserve "the Thieu regime." If that were really the goal, then the judgment of the war would almost certainly be negative. But the war has not taken place in a vacuum, but in a changing historical and global context.

Despite such revisionist history as David Halberstam's The Best and the Brightest, it is not difficult to understand why Kennedy and his advisors felt that evidence of U.S. weakness in Vietnam, or seeming weakness, might be highly dangerous globally. And later on, with the power of the West's single superpower engaged in Vietnam, issues of U.S.

credibility and reliability surrounded the entire investment. No easy totaling up on the basis of "proportionality" seems possible.

Another traditional principle holds that a clear distinction must be preserved between soldiers and civilians, and that it is immoral to kill a good many civilians, as has undoubtedly been done in Vietnam.

But here again the principle, painfully enough, is hard to apply. Modern wars are not the neat affairs of an earlier day, one uniformed force engaged against another one. The Vietnamese war has tended to dissolve the old distinction. Civilians actually fight. The Vietcong regular troops don't wear uniforms.

The entire North Vietnamese "civilian" society has been mobilized on behalf of the war effort. In a real sense, civilians in this war qualify very well as military targets. Logically, even infants do: in a war that lasts 25 years, the infant predictably grows up to become a fighter and therefore part of the war effort, part of the long range calculation. Modern wars, especially protracted ones, involve every aspect of a society, every man, woman, child, chicken and goat. The traditional moral criteria just don't seem to apply under these conditions.

I would not wish to maintain that moral judgments are impossible concerning something like the Vietnamese war. To say that would move one uncomfortably close to the position of Pilate, who asked "What is truth?" and then washed his hands of the matter. The consciousness that in fact there is a moral problem may well be a civilizing factor. But when the bishops and others pretend that the moral issues are easily settled, they merely damage their credibility and erode their own authority.

"Confidentially, kid, I'd get tomorrow's homework finished!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester I. Coleman, M.D.

You recently explained the distinction between a psychiatrist (M.D.), and a psychologist (Ph.D.).

There is a third resource for those afflicted with emotional problems, namely, the psychiatric social worker.

To be qualified, the social worker must have a Master of Social Work degree.

Once accredited, the worker can undertake therapy in most mental health clinics.

I believe your readers would benefit by a greater understanding of these therapists.

Mrs. J.K.T., R.I.

Dear Mrs. T.:

In re-reading the column you refer to I see that I did indeed overlook the valuable contribution made by highly trained and accredited social service workers.

Their value is particularly great in those areas of the country where the case load cannot be handled by psychiatrists and psychologists alone.

The contributions made by these competent social service workers to families and to individuals are recognized and respected by psychiatrists.

Often they work in conjunction with a psychiatrist when difficult problems arise.

My admiration for this group of contributors is enhanced by many fine experiences in my own medical paractice.

I am delighted that this oversight was called to my attention.

Can anything be done about the stretch marks on the skin that I have had since my last baby was born?

Mrs. E. G., Ohio

Dear Mrs. G.:

"Stretch" marks, like the "hash" marks on the sleeve of a well-decorated Army man, can only be considered a sign of special distinction.

Following pregnancy, striae gravidarum occur particularly on the skin of the abdomen, due to distention and stretching.

The marks can also occur on the thighs, the buttocks and the breasts. The cause is a slight rupture of the elastic fibers under the skin.

Unfortunately, there are no creams, hormones, or special gadgets that will completely eradicate these stretch marks. They do tend to become less prominent with time (it is said).

It is an interesting and unexplained fact that other causes of distention of the abdomen besides pregnancy do not always produce these marks. But then, not all women carry these distinctive signs of pregnancy.

NEW YORK (AP) — Let's take a little time off from Christmas shopping to play a game. It's the cliché game — a good one because it prepares us for life.

For where would we be without clichés, except tongue-tied? They seem to be as necessary to the educated as the uneducated man. They enable us to make conversation without really thinking.

Here's how you play the game: One player asks a question that has to be answered by a recognizable cliché. The one who can come up with the most clichés is the winner, whether he regards it as an honor or not.

To get the ball rolling — nothing like starting with a good cliché — here are a few examples that ought to give you food for thought — oops, there's another one.

"What kind of a spectacle was it?" It was a sordid spectacle.

"How pure was her character?" It was as pure as the driven snow.

"It was, that is, before what happened?" Before she drifted.

"Well, what is your own character above?" It is above reproach.

"You say it was a cute sight to see. Tell me, just how cute was it?" I'd say it was as cute as a speckled pup on a red wagon.

"What is a little knowledge?" It is better than none. "No dummy, you goofed that one. What is a little knowledge?" A little knowledge is a dangerous thing. "That's better — let's don't fall asleep on our feet."

"Is talk very expensive?" No, sir, talk is cheap.

"Where do you think would be a good place to put my money?" Where your mouth is.

"What, above all, must we always be able to tell?" We must be able to tell the forest from the trees.

"What is handsome?" Handsome is as handsome does.

"When our hostess serves us an exceptionally good dinner, what is it we tell her she must have done?" We tell her she must have put the big pot in the little one to come up with a meal like that.

"What is a left-handed baseball pitcher?" He's a southpaw. "Well, then, what is a northpaw?" You're just trying to mix me up now. There isn't any such thing as a northpaw. A right-handed pitcher is simply a right-handed pitcher.

"How good is fried chicken?" Finger lickin' good.

"What is it we simply must get together for sometime?" Lunch.

"If something is rare, how often would you say it happens?" It happens once in a blue moon. "Well, couldn't it ever happen twice in a blue moon?" Nope, if it happened twice, it would have to be in another color moon. Things only happen once in a blue moon.

That's the cliché game, kids. Play it — and take a load off your mind.

Steam Whistle Brought Back

After Protests

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Residents of suburban West Carrollton made such a fuss over the Oxford Paper Co.'s loud steam whistle, the company finally had to do something about it.

People liked the 70-year-old whistle so much that when the company announced it was ending the four times daily rooftop shriek, it had a public relations problem on its hands.

"Since so many wanted it, we will keep the whistle," mill manager Glenn Field said.

The whistle marked out shifts at the plant. Automatic electric buzzers are doing the job now.

But suburban residents said the steam blasts helped them wake up or remember to take medicine or call their children home. And many said the whistle had been blowing so long they couldn't stand the silence.

In Hong Kong many Chinese still believe that with every meal they not only stave off death but increase their virtue. They eat with a gusto that leaves the table looking like a battlefield.

New Deputy Defense Chief To Promote Image Change

DALLAS (AP) — A former oilfield roughneck who does not like to be called a "Texas oilman" was named deputy secretary of defense Tuesday and he pledged to try to change the image of the department.

"The Defense Department has been everybody's kicking boy," said William P. Clements Jr., 55, of Dallas at a news conference here following the announcement of his appointment in Washington.

Clements, who attended Southern Methodist University's school of engineering, is chairman and chief executive officer of SEDCO Inc., an oil well drilling company with most of its operations abroad.

"I am not an oilman from Texas," said Clements who founded the company in 1947.

Clements will work under new Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson and he promptly denied that he was appointed to "balance" the more liberal political leanings of the new secretary.

"We have different backgrounds," and we complement each other," said Clements, who stressed that the department must undergo a "radical image change to give it a broader base of support from the public."

Clements said the public "must be educated so that it will understand that the Department of Defense is its department."

"We must have the people feel this," Clements said, "have them share some of the problems of the department so they will understand it better."

He did not go into details as to how he expected to accomplish this, but said it could be done "without endangering national security."

Clements, who called himself a moderate with deep feelings about the need for a "strong national security policy," said that, as a civilian, he did not anticipate any problems in dealing with the Pentagon's military leaders.

New Deputy Defense Chief To Promote Image Change

DALLAS (AP) — A former oilfield roughneck who does not like to be called a "Texas oilman" was named deputy secretary of defense Tuesday and he pledged to try to change the image of the department.

"The Defense Department has been everybody's kicking boy," said William P. Clements Jr., 55, of Dallas at a news conference here following the announcement of his appointment in Washington.

Clements, who attended Southern Methodist University's school of engineering, is chairman and chief executive officer of SEDCO Inc., an oil well drilling company with most of its operations abroad.

"I am not an oilman from Texas," said Clements who founded the company in 1947.

Clements will work under new Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson and he promptly denied that he was appointed to "balance" the more liberal political leanings of the new secretary.

"We have different backgrounds," and we complement each other," said Clements, who stressed that the department must undergo a "radical image change to give it a broader base of support from the public."

Clements said the public "must be educated so that it will understand that the Department of Defense is its department."

"We must have the people feel this," Clements said, "have them share some of the problems of the department so they will understand it better."

He did not go into details as to how he expected to accomplish this, but said it could be done "without endangering national security."

Clements, who called himself a moderate with deep feelings about the need for a "strong national security policy," said that, as a civilian, he did not anticipate any problems in dealing with the Pentagon's military leaders.

Santa and the ICE KING

by Lucrece Beale

SYNOPSIS: Oonik has asked Santa to visit the Ice King and talk him into ending the continuous winter. Santa was at first hesitant about taking the assignment, but finally agreed. Santa's helper still is not convinced it's a good idea.

CHAPTER SEVEN BURNING THE TOYS

Crooked-legged Tweedle-knees jumped up and down in a rage.

"Your cannot leave Santa Land", he cried to Santa Claus.

"Who is going to invent toys and show the fairies how to make them? Who is going to get things ready for next Christmas?"

"Do be quiet, Patrick Tweedle-knees" ordered Santa. "You know very well there may be no Christmas if the Ice King freezes up the whole world."

"But it's dangerous!" shouted Tweedle-knees. He turned and shook his tiny fist in Oonik's face. "Oh, you! Why did you ever come here with your big fat ideas?"

"Don't mind him," said Santa taking Oonik's arm. "He makes a big noise to cover up his kind heart. Come, let's be on our way."

"How will you travel, may I ask?" persisted Tweedle-knees. "The reindeer are gone."

Santa said, "Well, I'll think of something."

"Keotuk can take us!" spoke up Oonik. "Keotuk's my dog. He can take us anywhere. Except — "he dropped his head. "Except I have lost my sled."

"Why, that's nothing!" exclaimed Santa. "I can make us a sled."

"Nothing of the sort," said Tweedle-knees huffily "I'll make the sled. I'm the chief sled-maker around here, please remember."

Santa chuckled. "Very well. Have it ready in an hour's time. Now Oonik Tweedle-knees shook his tiny fist in Oonik's face.

you go with Tweedle-knees and I'll go see to Mrs. Claus."

Still grumbling, but anxious now to show what he could do, Tweedle-knees crawled up the pile of hay with Oonik behind him. They started down the ladder with Tweedle-knees leading the way.

Oonik found that going down the strange contraption was much harder than going up. When he had gone half way he made the mistake of looking at the ground. His head whirled, he missed his footing, and slipped down on Tweedle-knees' head.

With a whoosh they came tumbling to the ground.

"I'm sorry!" cried Oonik, jumping to his feet.

Tweedle-knees lay motionless in the snow. "Are you hurt?" cried Oonik in alarm. But Tweedle-knees lay like one dead. Suddenly Keotuk bounded up. Eagerly he licked the dwarf's face. Instantly Tweedle-knees leaped up.

"What is that thing?" he shouted in horror.

"It's Keotuk, my dog," said Oonik. "He's only trying to help you."

Tweedle-knees drew in his breath. It seemed he was about to let out a torrent of abuse and Oonik's knees shook with fear. But Tweedle-knees merely sighed.

"Come on," he said huffily.

"But please don't walk close to me for goodness only knows what you might do next." And he marched glumly away with Oonik obediently trailing 10 feet behind.

Presently they turned into the door of a long low building nearly covered by snow. Oonik gasped at what he saw.

At one end of the room a group of silver-winged fairies huddled around a stove that held no fire. In the middle of the room there were long tables, row on row, and on the tables were such toys as Oonik had never seen or heard of.

There were kites and wagons and skates and baseball bats. There were fire engines and boxing gloves and doll houses and toy drums.

Oonik's eyes popped and he stood with his mouth wide open unable to move or speak. But Tweedle-knees marched up to the fairies and said, "Bring me tools and wood. I have a sled to make."

The fairies, shivering and clattering their teeth, shook their heads. "There's no wood to build a fire to keep warm by. How can we find you wood for a sled?"

Tweedle-knees snapped his fingers. "Use the toys for firewood," he said. "And I'll take these wagons apart to build a sled."

"What?" cried the Queen Fairy in consternation. "Destroy the toys we've already made?"

"Santa himself is going to settle things with the Ice King," said Tweedle-knees importantly. "When he comes back there'll be summer again for sure and when the ice melts we'll find wood enough for a mountain of toys."

3 Licavoli Pals Freed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three of the men convicted with Thomas "Yonnie" Licavoli in a series of 1930s gangland killings in Toledo have been granted paroles.

John Rai, 68; Ralph Carsello, 66, and Serafino Sinatra, 72, will leave prison early next year on special lifetime paroles so "the public can be assured they will be closely supervised for the rest of their lives."

The way was opened for the paroles when Gov. John Gilligan commuted the trio's first-degree murder convictions to second-degree murder last month. Licavoli was paroled last January.

Carsello goes free Jan. 11, bound for Cleveland, where he will live with a brother. Rai and Sinatra are to be freed Feb. 8. They will live in Buffalo, N.Y., with relatives.

Santa and the ICE KING

by Lucrece Beale

SYNOPSIS: Onnik has asked Santa to visit the Ice King and talk him into ending the continuous winter. Santa was at first hesitant about taking the assignment, but finally agreed. Santa's helper still is not convinced it's a good idea.

CHAPTER SEVEN BURNING THE TOYS
Crooked-legged Tweedle-knees jumped up and down in a rage.

"Your cannot leave Santa Land", he cried to Santa Claus.

"Who is going to invent toys and show the fairies how to make them? Who is going to get things ready for next Christmas?"

"Do be quiet, Patrick Tweedle-knees" ordered Santa. "You know very well there may be no Christmas if the Ice King freezes up the whole world."

"But it's dangerous!" shouted Tweedle-knees. He turned and shook his tiny fist in Onnik's face. "Oh, you! Why did you ever come here with your big fat ideas?"

"Don't mind him," said Santa taking Onnik's arm. "He makes a big noise to cover up his kind heart. Come, let's be on our way."

"How will you travel, may I ask?" persisted Tweedle-knees. "The reindeer are gone."

Santa said, "Well, I'll think of something."

"Keotuk can take us!" spoke up Onnik. "Keotuk's my dog. He can take us anywhere. Except — "he dropped his head. "Except I have lost my sled."

"Why, that's nothing!" exclaimed Santa. "I can make us a sled."

Sneek-A-PEEK

Special entertainment for young people is a sign of the Christmas Season. The library, theatre groups, and even shopping centers are often sources of interesting and educational programs. Don't let the rush and hurry of the Christmas Season cause you to overlook these events.

On December 16 and 17 the Chillicothe Civic Theatre will be presenting "The Emperor's New Clothes" at the Majestic Theatre in Chillicothe. There will be two performances of this children's play each day; at 1:30 and 3:00 p.m. On Friday, December 22 and Wednesday, December 27 at 2:00 p.m., Mrs. Karen Amey will be presenting puppet shows in the Sneek-a-peek Room at the library. These shows will be for pre-school and elementary-grade students.

During the week between Christmas and the New Year, rap sessions will be held at the library for junior high students. These sessions will be held on December 26, 27, 28, and 29 at 2:30 p.m. Each day, one or more subjects will be discussed. Some of the these subjects are: identity, war, the occult, ecology, drugs, race, and the generation gap. Miss Karen Ried is in charge of these rap sessions. Some of the new books which have just arrived in the Young Adult section of the library will be discussed during the sessions. Many of them will be displayed on the young adult tables.

"The Power of Stars" by Louise Lawrence is one of the new books of interest. It is labelled a story of suspense, but suspense is a mild word for the chilling, frightening excitement of this story. It is basically a science-fiction novel which puts forth a theory about nerve cells from another planet invading the mind of a teen-aged girl. They make her capable of frightening acts of power. This book ends with a surprise. If you read it, you'll think about it for a long time.

"The Visitor" by Josephine Poole is also a story of suspense. It deals with the arrival of Mr. Bogle, an ordinary-looking man, to the town of Fury Wood. No one realizes until it is almost too late the strange secrets that Mr. Bogle keeps, and his drive for power over the minds of the villagers. There is a lot of action and excitement in this book.

"The Poison Factory" by John Branfield treats the subject of ecology and the moral issue of chemical warfare. It deals with the experiences and feelings of a young girl whose father died while doing some secret research in a chemical laboratory in England. Young people interested in discussing the dangers of chemical warfare and the reasons why it should be avoided will enjoy reading this book. It is filled with thought-provoking arguments about this important and controversial subject.

These and other exciting new young adult books are now on display in the Young Adult section.

Chicago Pushes Upward Mobility

CHICAGO (AP) — Tuition-free courses are being offered housekeepers, mailroom clerks and kitchen workers at the University of Chicago hospitals and clinics in an effort to give upward mobility to employees.

Sally Holloway, director of education and training, said the comprehensive program cultivates skills as biochemists, secretaries and nurses.

"By providing the training necessary for various skilled positions in the hospital," Holloway said, "the door is opened to new hospital careers."

Until recently, persons who failed to make it through the public educational system had few prospects beyond job situations that required no special skills, she said.

Turner Sues To Keep Ohio Senate Seat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An incumbent state senator defeated for reelection Nov. 7 has filed an action in the Ohio Supreme Court in an effort to keep his seat.

Sen. Robin Turner, R-14 Marion, who lost by 155 votes to Democrat Gene Slagle of Galion, claims there were election law violators in at least two counties which led to his defeat.

His petition seeks to void the election in Marion and Crawford counties, two of the eight which comprise or help comprise the new 26th Senate District where Turner ran this year.

In Marion County, he said a requirement for precinct-to-precinct rotation of candidates' names on ballot listings was not followed, and that he was listed as a candidate for an unexpired term ending in 1974 instead of a full, four-year term ending in 1976.

His petition stated that in Crawford County, election officials did not seal ballot boxes and allowed ballots to be stored in "open containers" to which the public had easy access.

Although Turner's petitions ask the high court to require new elections in the two counties, some legal observers predict the dispute may wind up in the Senate, itself.

They refer to a section of law covering election of state legislators which specifies that courts may conduct hearings, but then must turn their findings over to the legislative chamber involved for a determination as to which member will be seated.

Republicans will dominate the next Senate 17-16, Turner's petition notwithstanding.

CAREY, Ohio (AP) — He had no name. He had no home. He was an outlaw, target of every gun.

By the fang he lived and by the gun he died, as outlaws who challenge man must in populous Ohio, but defiantly he survived the three score wild dogs he led on wide-ranging hunting trips through desolate marshland pastures northeast of this Wyandot County village.

Woman Loses Bid To Sue Law Officers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Mrs. Oliver Mills was turned back Wednesday in her attempt to sue four southeastern Ohio law officers for $1 million for allegedly violating her constitutional rights two years ago.

Mrs. Mills claimed the four detained her illegally while a manhunt was conducted for her husband, who later was convicted of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Vinton County Sheriff Harold Steele.

The jury deliberated about eight hours on the suit Wednesday and then announced it was deadlocked. U.S. District Court Judge Carl Rubin then dismissed the case.

Mrs. Mills had filed the action against Jackson County Sheriff Hile Fyffe, Athens Police Chief Charles Cochran and two unidentified sheriff's deputies.

Her attorney, David Kessler, dropped Cochran from the action Tuesday and the two deputies were also dropped since they couldn't be identified.

It was not known if Kessler planned to refile the suit.

Meanwhile in a related development in McArthur, a Vinton County judge ruled that Mills must stand trial for the wounding of a deputy who was shot at the same time Steele was killed.

"He was a smart dog," said Dog Warden Jack Stalter, lingering admiration in his voice.

"He'd be standing on a stump or ridge watching, but he wouldn't get trapped."

The nameless outlaw led his ravaging mates in packs of eight to 15 to slaughter about $4,000 worth of sheep last year. Half German Shepherd, half Collie, this canny cur gave Stalter the toughest fight of the 31 years he has been dealing with dogs.

"They were a real threat to people," said Stalter.

The unlikely story of the wild dogs began in the unfarmed bogs where Hancock, Wyandot and Seneca counties meet. Over the past several years, families abandoned the old houses clustered there, and as they pulled out they left their dogs, some with litters of pups, to fend for themselves.

"Then, it got so that if anyone in the three counties had a dog to get rid of," said Stalter, "they took him out there. The pack grew, food was scarce, and they began to kill livestock."

"They developed quite an appetite for sheep. They ran cattle in the area, but they didn't bring any down."

The packs roamed farther and farther in search of food. The countryside became unsafe for humans without a gun and dangerous even then.

One man living near the marshland hideouts of the growing pack told how a hungry dozen dogs stalked him as he walked to machinery parked behind his farm buildings.

Angry individual farmers took up arms and tried to protect their flocks, but without success. The slaughter of sheep, the threat to humans continued.

Then the farmers banded together a year ago this month in a massive wild dog hunt. For two months as many as 25 to 30 men using guns, radios and spotter airplanes fought the pack.

The battlefield itself was dangerous, ideal cover for the dogs.

"There are clumps of trees in the marshland with quicksand around them," said Stalter. "It was unsafe to walk into some of those areas where the dogs would hang out, and even in zero weather it never froze."

Stalter coordinated the hunt. He tried to borrow Ohio Highway Patrol helicopter, but they were busy checking humans. Airplane spotters found clumps of brush and stunted trees blanketed the sulking dog packs.

The only answer, the hunters found, was patience—hours of surveillance until the dogs moved from cover.

"I have to guess how many hours we spent up there, and how many miles we drove," said Stalter. "We waited until they came out, then moved in to block them off."

Gunners used shotguns with several slugs in each shell, rather than shot. Day after day they hunted and shot until every dog was driven out and killed.

"We've had no complaint since, and we check it pretty often," said Stalter. "Most of them had been tame, but the pups grew up wild and the longer they ran, the worse they got. They'd roam three or four miles in any direction."

The dog hunt was ended. The pack was destroyed. Still, the fittest of them all survived. The leader fell for no human tricks, and he still roamed a solitary hunter through the brush.

The hunt was over, but not for one farmer who lived near the grim marshland. "A fellow who lived near there," said Stalter, "watched for him, and got him one night near a building with a high-powered rifle."

"He got a lucky shot."

Find Bodies Of Lima Men In Airplane

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — The bodies of four Ohio men were recovered Wednesday from the wreckage of a light plane found in rugged country in Southern Illinois.

The plane, missing since Friday, disintegrated after it crashed into a 300-foot bluff in a wooded, hilly area about 20 miles southwest of Murphysboro in Jackson County, authorities said.

The four men were identified through papers found on their bodies as John Heights, 44, the pilot; his father, Ralph Heights, 68; the pilot's son, Joseph Heights, 18, and Frank Tomlinson, 31, a family friend, all of Lima, Ohio.

Capt. Thomas Wimberly of the Illinois Civil Air Patrol said the single-engine plane was bound from Lima to Brady, Tex., when it was last heard from moments after it left the Williamson County airport in Marion, Ill., Friday evening.

It was forced to make a brief stopover there because of bad weather. The four men were on a weekend hunting trip to Tomlinson's family home in Texas.

The search for the plane through Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Texas had been hampered by poor weather conditions. An air patrol plane of the Illinois State Police spotted the wreckage Wednesday morning and authorities had to use special equipment to reach the scene.

dinner for 600 to 700 families.

"You might call it partly a hobby and partly a business because we do make money at it," Ralph said. "It's a hobby and a part of surviving, too," Ray echoed.

The Wilson brothers, operating in a barn-like building behind Ralph's home, cure country hams, the traditional Christmas feast in many a home, particularly in the south.

"We're not a big time operation and we're not like the quick cure boys," Ralph Wilson said. "We just do 600-700 hams a year and it takes the whole year to get them ready."

Actually, it takes more than a year. The brothers start their work just after Thanksgiving to prepare hams for the Christmas that still is 13 months away.

They begin with specially selected hams. "The packing house has to know what you're going to do with them so they don't sell you hams that have been overchilled or hams that have dried out too much," Ralph explained.

A government inspector must approve the hams before the brothers begin their work. Then the hams are laid side by side on long tables and the process begins.

"We cover them with a mixture of salt, brown sugar and black pepper (the ratio is the secret) and let them lay there for about 30 days," Ralph said.

During that period, the brothers periodically give them a sort of rub-down or two.

"The weather dictates how often we do it," Ralph said. "If there is a hard freeze, we always come in the next day to break the crust on the hams and start the salt working again."

But whatever the weather, each ham gets what Ralph and Ray call "an overhaul" once or twice during the first 30 days.

As this year ends, next year's Christmas hams are put into cloth bags and hung from hooks in the ceiling of the workshop to age once around the calendar.

"There are a few people who like two-year hams and we leave a few—maybe four or five—up that long for them," Ralph said. The rest go to four stores in this area with which the Wilsons deal.

The business-hobby began for the Wilsons about 27 years ago when they operated their own grocery.

"We decided to cure our own hams and when we sold the store about 10 years ago, the fellow who bought it asked us to keep on curing hams for him, so we did," Ralph said.

"Of course, when we started, we just

Actress Kim Novak To Take Over Role?

LONDON (AP) — Actress Kim Novak has flown to London, claiming that she has taken over the starring role in a British movie after Rita Hayworth stormed out in a rumpus with the producers.

But Miss Novak's agent here, Donald Bradley, told newsmen as he met the blonde star that "she has come to London for talks about the film, just talks."

cured a few, but it's grown over the years," he added.

The cured hams are sold by the Wilsons for about twice the amount per pound that they pay for them, Ralph said, but that's not all profit.

"You take a 20-pound ham that you buy, and when it's fully cured a year later it will weigh about 15 pounds. You lose about five pounds in moisture," he said.

The Wilsons sell all of their hams at Christmas and spend the next few weeks hanging those for next year, but their hobby doesn't end there.

"We start to work about the middle of January curing country bacon. It doesn't take as long to cure because it has no bones, so it's ready by May or June, just when fresh vegetables start coming in," Ralph said.

"Last year, we cured about 5,000 pounds of that," he added.

All this curing can be done more quickly by using refrigeration, Ralph said, "but we just let nature take its course and it makes all the difference in the world in the taste."

Nixon Names More Top Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today he will name James Keogh, a former executive director of Time Magazine, to head the U.S. Information Agency, replacing Frank J. Shakespeare Jr.

In another round of changes in high-level posts for his second term, Nixon also designated the dean of the Duke Law School, Joseph T. Sneed, 52, of Durham, N.C., to be deputy attorney general. Sneed, one of Nixon's professors at the school, would succeed Ralph E. Erickson, who, the White House said, will be offered a high judicial post.

And, Ronald H. Walker, 35, a special assistant to Nixon who has been serving as an advance man on presidential trips, was named to be the new director of the National Park Service. He would succeed George B. Hertzog Jr., who was relieved of his duties by Nixon.

Remaining in a top-level post he has held since early in the Nixon administration, is 44-year-old William H. Brown III, chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. The panel has been given new powers by Congress to combat job discrimination of all types. A native of Philadelphia, Brown was first named to the EEOC by President Lyndon B. Johnson and was kept on by Nixon.

Futuristic 'Gun' Being Used In Police War On Speeders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The motorcycle policeman raised what looked like a gun and pulled the trigger as the motorist sped by on the curve.

The driver saw the officer and hastily slowed down. But it was too late. He was 15 miles over the limit — and it was recorded on the scope of the hand-held Digital Doppler, a new tool police are using to catch speeders.

A nine-mile stretch of Sunset Boulevard from Beverly Hills to the Pacific Ocean is now patrolled by motorcycle officers using the instrument, which looks like a comic strip ray gun.

The police purchased eight of the devices — also known as "speed guns" — for about $700 each. They have been used on Sunset for three months because conventional speed detection systems are impractical there.

"The winding curves on Sunset endanger officers engaged in lengthy pursuits to clock and catch speeders," said Sgt. Gary C. Hall.

The detectors transmits a radio beam. It strikes a moving vehicle, bounces back to the gun and goes into a portable computer connected to the gun. The vehicle's speed is instantaneously registered in figures on the scope at the back of the gun.

The figures can be locked into place to prove to disbelieving motorists they were speeding.

How do officers know the gun is accurate?

It's tested against a tuning fork which vibrates to simulate an objective moving at 50 miles an hour.

Two-man teams use the detectors. One officer clocks speeders, the other pursues them.

The speed gun, manufactured by CMI, Inc. of Minturn, Colo., was well publicized before it went into operation.

"We were afraid some little old lady may see an officer pointing a speed gun at her and dive under the dash and pile up the car," said Hickman.

Diet Pill Clampdown Pondered By FDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday it is "carefully considering" recommendations to clamp tight controls on prescription diet pills because of their widespread abuse.

Dr. Henry E. Simmons, director of the FDA's Bureau of Drugs, said computer studies have demonstrated that amphetamines and their chemical cousins have "extremely limited" value in weight loss.

Futuristic 'Gun' Being Used In Police War On Speeders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The motorcycle policeman raised what looked like a gun and pulled the trigger as the motorist sped by on the curve.

The driver saw the officer and hastily slowed down. But it was too late. He was 15 miles over the limit — and it was recorded on the scope of the hand-held Digital Doppler, a new tool police are using to catch speeders.

A nine-mile stretch of Sunset Boulevard from Beverly Hills to the Pacific Ocean is now patrolled by motorcycle officers using the instrument, which looks like a comic strip ray gun.

The police purchased eight of the devices — also known as "speed guns" — for about $700 each. They have been used on Sunset for three months because conventional speed detection systems are impractical there.

"The winding curves on Sunset endanger officers engaged in lengthy pursuits to clock and catch speeders," said Sgt. Gary C. Hall.

The detectors transmits a radio beam. It strikes a moving vehicle, bounces back to the gun and goes into a portable computer connected to the gun. The vehicle's speed is instantaneously registered in figures on the scope at the back of the gun.

The figures can be locked into place

to prove to disbelieving motorists they were speeding.

How do officers know the gun is accurate?

It's tested against a tuning fork which vibrates to simulate an objective moving at 50 miles an hour.

Two-man teams use the detectors. One officer clocks speeders, the other pursues them.

The speed gun, manufactured by CMI, Inc. of Minturn, Colo., was well publicized before it went into operation.

"We were afraid some little old lady may see an officer pointing a speed gun at her and dive under the dash and pile up the car," said Hickman.

Diet Pill Clampdown

Pondered By FDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday it is "carefully considering" recommendations to clamp tight controls on prescription diet pills because of their widespread abuse.

Dr. Henry E. Simmons, director of the FDA's Bureau of Drugs, said computer studies have demonstrated that amphetamines and their chemical cousins have "extremely limited" value in weight loss.

Gals Flock To New York For Abortions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 14,000 pregnant Ohio women—determined not to have their babies—flew to New York last year for abortions.

Untold hundreds of other Ohio women stayed home with sympathetic doctors. They underwent operations that skirted or violated the law.

Since July 1, 1970, when New York made abortion legal, more than 20,000 Ohio women have taken the legal plane trip of 45 minutes eastward. Hundreds more flew to Washington, D.C. Several legal clinics operate there.

It's easy enough to get an abortion in Ohio—even if the law says the life of the mother-to-be must be in danger. All you have to have is money and an understanding doctor.

One such physician, who performed a "therapeutic abortion" in an Ohio hospital last week, explained how:

"The law states abortions can be performed only to save the life of the women." He shrugged. "Well, in the strict medical sense, there are only very rare instances considering the medical procedures today when a pregnancy creates a lifethreatening situation.

"If a woman comes to me and wants an abortion, and for some reason can't go to New York, I'll send her to two psychiatrists who will provide statements saying the woman will commit suicide if she does not have an abortion.

"I make an arrangement for her to go into the hospital, and then perform the operation. Personally, I don't like doing abortions, but my duty as a physician is to my patient, and I must do whatever will improve my patient's health."

Physicians and psychiatrists who skirt the Ohio abortion law talked about "hundreds" of abortions throughout the state each year. Several believed the total could be more than 1,000.

Abortions often are performed in hospitals under other labels: D and C's, scrapings or some medical term. The legal end run is expensive.

"It costs about $50 for each psychiatrist, my fee is about $150 and the three days stay in the hospital will probably run about $300," said the doctor. "You can go to New York—counting plane fare and a limousine service from the airport to the clinic—for about $250."

Dr. Adolph Haas, a practicing psychiatrist in Columbus, said he has signed affidavits that "a woman would be suicidal if she were to have an illegitimate child."

"I think you could say I am skirting the law," he said, "but it is the obligation of the psychiatrist to do this if it is in the best interest of the patient. The patient does come first."

Dr. Haas is a leader in the state's abortion reform movement.

He said it is difficult to predict whether a person will commit suicide, but if the tendencies are there—"and they are quite often during early stages of unwanted pregnancy"—it is too late to wait until after the suicide.

"It is my firm conviction that Ohio's law is archaic," Dr. Haas said. "Ohio's legislators are using New York to get around an unpalatable issue. In the interest of dignity we should strike this law."

Dr. John Cashman, director of the Ohio Department of Health, aligns himself with the "so-called right-to-life groups." He said "performing an abortion in this state on a legal basis is practically impossible."

"I can't think of any medical circumstance when an abortion is necessary to save the life of the woman," Dr. Cashman said.

"There is very little evidence supporting this psychiatric business," he added. "A very small number of women would commit suicide because of a pregnancy."

Dr. Cashman said he did not know of any physicians who were doing "therapeutic abortions" and added that he doubted the legitimacy of the term "therapeutic abortion."

Dr. Cashman said it would be almost impossible to count "therapeutic abortions." No records are kept and hospitals are hesitant to release such information.

"I don't even like the idea of sending the women out of the state for abortions, and, although I can't rule on the legality of it, I doubt it is legal," he said.

Dr. Cashman said he gives no funds to family planning agencies if the money is to be used for abortion counseling.

Ohio's law was written in 1834 at a time when all surgical procedures had to be approved by the courts because of the dangers involved.

Prior to 1830, no states had statutes prohibiting abortion. Prior to 1860, the Catholic Church, which is in the forefront of the anti-abortion movement, forbade abortions after only 80 days for female fetuses and 40 days for male fetuses.

As surgical procedures became safer, laws prohibiting other types of surgery were eliminated, but the abortion law remained in effect because of strong legislative lobbying of various right-to-life groups.

The Ohio law was upheld by a three-judge panel in U.S. District Court in Toledo last year.

Both pro and anti forces await a U.S. Supreme Court decision on the Texas law. The Texas law is almost identical to the Ohio statute. If the court overturns the Texas statute, physicians may begin performing abortions in Ohio without psychiatric affidavits. The state statute may no longer be enforceable.

Rep. John Galbraith, R-7th, has introduced several abortion reform bills into the House, but none has gotten out of committee.

"It is not a very good candidate," Galbraith said.

Abortion is probably the most emotional issue in Ohio.

Legislators don't like to talk about it for fear of voter reaction.

A national poll showed most women favor abortion upon request and pro-abortion forces in Ohio have begun to reorganize because abortion reform was defeated in Michigan in November.

Before any states liberalized their laws, estimates put U.S. abortions each year at 1.5 million.

An abortion reform leader said:

"If a woman wants an abortion she will get one whether or not it is legal."

Pregnancy Test Kits Called Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pregnancy tests sold with the slogan "when you want to be the first to know" are being recalled because the government considers them inaccurate and unreliable.

The Food and Drug Administration announced the nationwide recall of the Ova II test kits on Tuesday. It said hundreds of thousands are believed to have been distributed in the last two years.

The manufacturer claims to have marketed 165,000 of the pregnancy test kits, the FDA said.

The FDA said that any woman who has used an Ova II test kit recently should "see her physician immediately for accurate methods of detecting pregnancy."

The kits, sold without prescription and advertised in newspapers and women's magazines with the slogan "when you want to be the first to know," are considered inaccurate, unreliable and prone to give false results, the FDA said.

La Mar Laboratories at Oceanside, N.Y., manufactures and distributes LPT Pregnancy test kits for professional use. The identical Ova II kits are manufactured by La Mar and distributed through drug stores by Faraday Laboratories of Hillside, N.J.

POW Bracelet Replicas Rapped

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Bracelets made to look like the heavy wristlets distributed by a national prisoner of war organization have appeared in Dayton.

Officials of Voices in Vital America, the group that makes the "real" bracelets, have denounced the replicas, which are stamped "POW replica" on the inside.

The man who distributed the imitation bracelets, Mike Roberts of Providence, R.I., says he stopped production because "they went over like a dud."

If your hand were designed to brush teeth, it might look like this.

We're not saying you can't do a good job with a hand-powered toothbrush. You can. And according to the experts, there's more than one way to brush.

Here's one way: starting at your gums, brush down on your upper teeth, up on your lower teeth, on the front, back and chewing surfaces, brushing each area at least ten times, making sure to take at least several minutes.

Of course, this isn't the only good choice you've got. Here's another. And this one was specifically, scientifically engineered to brush teeth correctly.

Broxodent 120 Strokes-per-second. That's how fast the precision brush-head of Broxodent moves. And that's fast. It adds up to 7200 cleaning, polishing strokes a minute. (And that's awfully nice when you're rushing for a morning train or an evening appointment.)

Since Broxodent runs on regular house current, the brush-head gets constant, steady power. There are no batteries to recharge or replace. And of course Broxodent carries the Underwriters' Laboratory Seal.

Clean teeth: fresh breath, a healthy mouth.

Clinical studies have shown the value of Broxodent in removing harmful food deposits (plaque), while maintaining healthy gums.

And if you noticed in the picture that the brush-head of Broxodent looks small, that's because it was designed small. Small to reach hard-to-get-at places, like the backs of your teeth. The thin bristles help get decay-causing particles from between teeth, too. So you end up with clean, bright teeth.

Predictably enough, you also end up with clean, fresh breath.

An answer to the "getting-your-kids-to-brush" problem. You know what a chore it is getting kids to brush. But watching a kid brush with Broxodent is something else.

Kids like snapping their own color-coded brush onto the Broxodent. They like the "tingly" feel of Broxodent.

Luckily, this also applies to kids of thirty-five.

Ask your dentist. By all means, ask your dentist what he thinks of Broxodent. He's the man who knows. And more dentists surveyed recommended Broxodent than all other electric toothbrushes combined. Broxodent.

Picking one up might be the smartest thing your hand ever did for you.

FTC Seeks To End Xerox Domination Of Copy Market

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission is proposing to break up the Xerox Corp.'s domination of the $1.7-billion office copier market because of allegedly unfair marketing and patent practices.

Xerox vowed to fight the proposal announced by the FTC Tuesday.

The commission said it will issue a formal complaint accusing the corporation of preventing its foreign affiliates from competing against it in U.S. markets.

The complaint also will challenge the patent rights held by Xerox preventing other firms from using certain paper-copying techniques, the FTC said.

The complaint prepared by the FTC staff says that Xerox cornered 60 per cent of over-all revenue in the industry, 95 per cent of the revenue from plainpaper copying machines, and 86 per cent of the revenue from the lease and sale of machines in 1971.

The FTC's proposed remedies included:

—Forcing the firm to divest itself of stock in Rank Xerox Ltd., a British corporation which distributes office copier machines worldwide except in the United States and Canada. Xerox was accused of keeping the British firm out of the U.S. market.

—Requiring Xerox to license others to use "all existing patents pertinent to office copiers," including rights resulting from pending patent applications and patents obtained for some 20 years in the future.

The board chairman and chief executive officer of Xerox, C. Peter McCoolough, called the proposed complaint "illfounded and without merit."

"We are not being accused of any impropriety in securing any of our patents," he declared. "What is being challenged by the FTC is the very basis of the patent system—the concept that an investor should be awarded exclusive rights to his invention for a limited period of time."

Scioto Valley Local School Issues Pass

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP)—A $1.5 million school bond issue and a 4.3-mill tax levy increase for additions and renovations to three existing schools were approved Tuesday by voters in the Scioto Valley Local School District.

The levy will bring the district up to the 22.5-mill minimum required under the state's school foundation subsidy program.

Even Stuffed Birds Available At Concord Public Library

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — "While we're downtown," says the man to his kids, "let's stop at the library and check out some birds."

The birds, of the stuffed variety, are available on a regular library card at the Public Library. One can have them for a month, like a book. There are some small stuffed animals, too.

Lois Markey, the library director, says she has 300 to 400 of the creatures to check out. But she doesn't know where they came from.

"Many years ago, the city was given a collection known as the Goodhue Collection," she said. Most of it is catalogued and is on display in cases on the upper floor.

"In addition, we have some down in our stack area in the basement, which are not catalogued," she added. "We got them in some other fashion, and it is those birds and animals that we allow to circulate."

Who would want one?

"The first users were artists in several media," said Mrs. Markey, "oils, watercolor, woodcarvers, craftsmen of all kinds. They use them rather extensively."

Schoolteachers are another user group.

"Then, upon occasion, somebody just likes to have one," she explained, "a piece of decoration."

Youth Ice Skates To Make Purchase

VEEDERSBURG, Ind. (AP) — Gary Lightle, 15, didn't let an ice storm Tuesday stop him from providing milk and bread for his parents and three sisters.

He donned his ice skates, sailed three miles into Veedersburg, made his purchases and returned home without a spill.

Fog, Rain Prevail In South

Dense fog settled over the Gulf Coast states early today as scattered showers and thunderstorms struck from eastern Texas through the Southeast to southern Virginia.

As the rain moved north in Arkansas, freezing temperatures were expected to cause hazardous driving conditions.

Subfreezing temperatures in California's San Joaquin Valley damaged the area's multimillion-dollar citrus crop. State agricultural officials were assessing the extent of damage from frost which has hit the orange groves for six straight days.

Light rain or snow chilled the Pacific Northwest and Upper Michigan. Hancock, Mich., picked up 2 more inches of snow, giving it 27 inches on the ground.

Strong chinook winds blew down the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies, reaching 71 miles an hour at Livingston, Mont.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 17 at Worland, Wyo., to 79 at Key West, Fla.

Famed Schoolhouse Foiled By Bridge

HOOSICK FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The tiny old frame schoolhouse once attended by Anna Mary Robertson "Grandma" Moses proved too big to go under a bridge Tuesday. It was being moved to Bennington, Vt., to the Grandma Moses Museum.

So the schoolhouse was hoisted over the bridge above the Boston & Maine Railroad tracks in North Hoosick.

FTC Seeks To End Xerox Domination Of Copy Market

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission is proposing to break up the Xerox Corp.'s domination of the $1.7-billion office copier market because of allegedly unfair marketing and patent practices.

Even Stuffed Birds Available At Concord Public Library

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — "While we're downtown," says the man to his kids, "let's stop at the library and check out some birds."

The birds, of the stuffed variety, are available on a regular library card at the Public Library. One can have them for a month, like a book. There are some small stuffed animals, too.

Fog, Rain Prevail In South

Dense fog settled over the Gulf Coast states early today as scattered showers and thunderstorms struck from eastern Texas through the Southeast to southern Virginia.

As the rain moved north in Arkansas, freezing temperatures were expected to cause hazardous driving conditions.

Subfreezing temperatures in California's San Joaquin Valley damaged the area's multimillion-dollar citrus crop. State agricultural officials were assessing the extent of damage from frost which has hit the orange groves for six straight days.

Light rain or snow chilled the Pacific Northwest and Upper Michigan. Hancock, Mich., picked up 2 more inches of snow, giving it 27 inches on the ground.

Strong chinook winds blew down the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies, reaching 71 miles an hour at Livingston, Mont.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 17 at Worland, Wyo., to 79 at Key West, Fla.

Famed Schoolhouse Foiled By Bridge

HOOSICK FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The tiny old frame schoolhouse once attended by Anna Mary Robertson "Grandma" Moses proved too big to go under a bridge Tuesday. It was being moved to Bennington, Vt., to the Grandma Moses Museum.

So the schoolhouse was hoisted over the bridge above the Boston & Maine Railroad tracks in North Hoosick.

announced by the FTC Tuesday.

The commission said it will issue a formal complaint accusing the corporation of preventing its foreign affiliates from competing against it in U.S. markets.

The complaint also will challenge the patent rights held by Xerox preventing other firms from using certain paper-copying techniques, the FTC said.

The complaint prepared by the FTC staff says that Xerox cornered 60 per cent of over-all revenue in the industry, 95 per cent of the revenue from plainpaper copying machines, and 86 per cent of the revenue from the lease and sale of machines in 1971.

The FTC's proposed remedies included:

—Forcing the firm to divest itself of stock in Rank Xerox Ltd., a British corporation which distributes office copier machines worldwide except in the United States and Canada. Xerox was accused of keeping the British firm out of the U.S. market.

—Requiring Xerox to license others to use "all existing patents pertinent to office copiers," including rights resulting from pending patent applications and patents obtained for some 20 years in the future.

The board chairman and chief executive officer of Xerox, C. Peter McCollough, called the proposed complaint "illfounded and without merit."

"We are not being accused of any impropriety in securing any of our patents," he declared. "What is being challenged by the FTC is the very basis of the patent system—the concept that an investor should be awarded exclusive rights to his invention for a limited period of time."

Ohio Merchants Happy With Christmas Rush

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — 'Tis the season to be jolly, and Ohio's consumers are making it just that for the state's retail merchants.

"I have no official poll — we never take one at Christmas time — but many major companies, and a lot of smaller ones expect the bullish and best Christmas season they have had in some time," said John Mahaney, director of the Retail Merchants Council-Ohio State.

"And almost everyone is anticipating a carry-over of this bullishness into 1973," Mahaney added. "It will be an excellent business year."

With the first two weeks of the Christmas shopping season over, retailers around the state are reporting brisk business.

"Business is very good, and our figures are running ahead of last year," a spokesman for the Columbus-based Hart Department stores said. "As a matter of fact the shopping rush started two weeks before Thanksgiving this year."

Although still patronizing the suburban shopping malls, many shoppers are returning to the state's downtown areas to do their shopping because of extended hours and because city stores are opening on Sunday this year.

"It has given many customers who hadn't shopped downtown for a while a chance to get down to the stores," Henry G. Brownell, president of Cleveland's Higbee's Department Stores, said.

The reason's given for Yuletide shopping spree are many: The presidential election is over, and there is confidence in the continuing administration; talk that the Vietnam war may be coming to an end; savings are at an all-time high.

"People have saved and are now willing to let it go because they foresee a better picture," a spokesman for Columbus' Lazarus Department stores said.

While there are more shoppers spending money there are also more people making money.

Most retailers are required to hire part-time help from Thanksgiving to Christmas, and the Lazarus spokesman said the company employs an additional 3,000 persons during the Christmas season.

Stores begin accepting applications in late October and usually the housewives, students and husbands, looking for extra money seek out the store. However, finding employees this year may have been a little tougher than usual.

"In years past we've always had enough walk-ins to hire," a spokesman for Hart said. "This year we had to advertise, but we managed to find an additional 10 per cent part-time help."

Just about everything on the retailers' shelves is selling.

"Women's wear, men's wear, as a matter of fact all clothing apparel is selling well," one retailer said. "Stereos, cameras, TVs, reclining chairs and even microwave ovens. I could go on and on."

However, Ohioans will not be able to find the unusual and extremely expensive Christmas gifts traditionally offered by Dallas' Neiman Marcus.

An official from Shillito's in Cincinnati explained:

"Our customers are pretty down to earth. While they are sophisticated in choosing what they buy, they don't go in for the bizarre."

Vandals Hit Phone Cables

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Phone service to an estimated 9,800 subscribers in central Youngstown was disrupted shortly before midnight Wednesday night when vandals cut telephone cables under two Youngstown bridges, an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. spokesman said today.

Also cut were 1,900 trunk cables handling long distance phone calls, teletype and other services to much of eastern Ohio.

Robert Percy, news manager for Ohio Bell's Cleveland district, could offer no explanation for the vandalism, which he said was apparently done with an ax.

Percy said it could take several days to completely restore service in the Youngstown area.

Cincy Women Feel Sympathy For Boston Murder Victims

CINCINNATI (AP)—Women living in Cincinnati for the past seven years have plenty of sympathy for females currently residing in Boston, Mass., the scene of a recent rash of strangulations.

The women here vividly recall a 53-week period ending Dec. 10, 1966, in which six females aged 51 to 81 were strangled and raped. The women here can sense the apprehension in Boston where five young women have been strangled.

The strangulation cases here remain open in official police files although there was speculation over identity of the strangler-rapist. Cincinnati police attributed the slayings to one man.

Publicity reached a peak with the arrest of 29-year-old Postel Laskey, Jr. on Dec. 10, 1966, the day of the final strangulation here.

Laskey was questioned in connection with the series of deaths, but was never charged in any of the cases.

He was found guilty in the slaying of Barbara Bowman, 31, a Cincinnati woman run down by a taxicab. A man posing as taxicab driver was at the wheel. He choked the woman, stabbed her repeatedly and then left her to die in the rain on a street here.

Laskey was sentenced to death in the Bowman slaying, but his sentence was commuted later to life in prison. He continues to serve time in the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus.

At one point during the strangulations here, Cincinnati police organized a 5,000-man "auxiliary force" to aid in the search for the strangler.

More than $25,000 in reward money was offered for help in solving the series of slayings, much of which occurred in the Clifton section where the University of Cincinnati is located.

Parallels were drawn in print between the Cincinnati Strangler and the Boston Strangler, blamed for killing 13 women in a 19-month period in the mid 1960s.

The victims here were Emogene Harrington, 56, wife of an internationally known University of Cincinnati space scientist; Lois Dant, 58; Jeannette Messer, 56, a widow; Miss Rose Winstel, 81, who was nearly blind and lived alone; Miss Lula Kerrick, 81; and Alice Hockhauser, 51, wife of a surgeon.

Each of the killings occurred in the woman's residence or the garage there.

Police could determine no motive for the slayings, and one homicide detective said recently, "You can say the killings are still unsolved."

Michigan Newsmen In Cages

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Newsmen covering Michigan's Senate can't even sit in the visitors gallery anymore under a unanimous edict to go into effect today relegating the Capitol Press Corps to assigned seats in half-built "cages."

"It looks like another step backwards from allowing full freedom of the press," said Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. He is checking to determine if Wednesday's unanimously-passed ruling is an attempt to muzzle the press.

Capitol newsmen, who all staged a walkout and spent the evening covering the Senate from speakers mounted in the press room, said there is no doubt the move is not only a muzzling attempt but also a case of political revenge.

Senate members have admitted the "cages" are partly in retaliation for uncomplimentary news stories. But they claim the major reason is to preserve "decorum" and end distractions caused by newsmen talking and walking about the chamber. Glass is on order to further insulate the $8,000-$10,000, partially-built cages, workmen said.

It states that newsmen "shall remain seated at their assigned desks" while in the Senate chambers which include the visitors' galleries. The newsmen are also only allowed to use the doors closest to their assigned seats.

Sheriff Radcliff told the group how his department is run and how it cooperates with the judicial system and its local counterparts in city, villages and the state.

The meeting was called to order by President Dan Goeglein. There were 31 members present.

Among items discussed in the business session were gifts for Brooks-Yates School, the concession stand at Saturday's home basketball game, and the underprivileged children's party with other school organizations.

Other guests at the meeting were Dick Wylie, chairman of the Kiwanis-Key Club Committee, and William Rosegarten, local advisor for the clubs.

Tigers Face MT In Key Cage Tilt

Circleville High School basketball team travels to Miami Trace Friday in the most important game of the young season and Saturday hosts Wehrle Memorial.

The winner of the game will be the leader in the South Central Ohio League.

Reace is led by the Jones boys, Muff and Pete, both 6 feet 3 inches tall and both starters a year ago.

Also back from that 1971-72 team is Glen Gifford, 5 feet 9 inches in stature. He is the playmaker of the team.

Size and rebounding this year is helped by the addition to the varsity of Dave Persinger, a 6-foot-4 205-pound junior. He was the leading scorer on last year's reserve team. Coach Jan Stauffer's Panthers always display a good offensive punch while maintaining a tight defense.

CHS coach John Lawhorn's cagers are boasting a 4-0 record, the only unbeaten team in the South Central Ohio League, and will be out to keep that record unblemished. Last week against Hillsboro, Dave Truex, Dan Graham and Greg Hoskins all hit in double figures in the scoring department while good scoring support was added by Robin Martin, Doug Radabaugh, Kris Kline and Glen Gillespie.

And this week's starting lineup will probably come from those seven players.

Vanderbilt's Commodores Defeat Mississippi, 59-57

Dutch van Breda Kolff would have loved it.

Jan, the 6-foot-7 son of the former collegiate and professional coach, threw in three straight 25-footers that played a major part in the seventh straight victory for the unbeaten Vanderbilt Commodores in college basketball Wednesday night.

Jan's trio of baskets early in the second half erased a fourpoint Mississippi lead and the Commodores went on to shade the Rebels 59-57.

"It was a helluva win," Vanderbilt Coach Roy Skinner said. "I don't mind telling you I was scared to death of Ole Miss, particularly considering that this was our fourth game in six days. I was just thankful that we were able to keep our poise."

The seventh victory in a row for the 13th-ranked Commodores in the Associated Press poll was a highlight of a night that also saw ninth-ranked Pennsylvania pull out a 54-53 squaker over its Philadelphia city rival, St. Joseph's, on a 10-foot jumper by sophomore Ron Haigler as time ran out.

In other games involving teams in the AP Top Twenty, No. 8 Southwestern Louisiana beat Mercer 111-104, No. 17 Brigham Young whipped Oklahoma State 96-69 and No. 20 Kansas State tripped Iowa 68-62.

Elsewhere it was Navy over Temple 66-58, Penn State over Duquesne 59-56, Boston College over St. Bonaventure 78-65, Harvard over Boston U. 102-92, Illinois over Iowa State 74-60, and New Mexico over New Mexico State 68-67.

Also, Butler over Western Kentucky in overtime 88-82, Bucknell over Colgate 76-52, Rochester over Cornell 85-79, Virginia Tech over Wm-Mary 98-77, U. of Pacific over Evansville 76-66, Arkansas over Georgia State 70-39 and San Jose State over Nevada-Reno 82-75.

Dwight Lamar's 35 points paced the Ragin' Cajuns over Mercer. James Brown threw in 36 for Harvard against BU and Kresimir Cosic scored 31 in

Bengals Busy At Work On Offense

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The "season pressure is off," but the Cincinnati Bengals are expecting a much improved offense Sunday from the Houston Oilers.

"Joe Wuldro, their offensive line coach is a good one," said Bengals defensive Coach Chuck Weber. "He's got some new people in that offensive line to give Dan Patronini some more protection—and don't think he can't throw the ball."

Weber said he is also worried about former Bengals running backs Fred

Willis and Paul Robinson, now teamed with Willie Rogers.

"Fred is one of their leading receivers too, now," Weber said. "I really look for them to try to control the ball with the running game, then raise up and throw one past us."

He said the Cincinnati practice this week showed a more relaxed atmosphere following the 27-24 loss to the Cleveland Browns which eliminated the Bengals from a shot at the playoffs. "But the pressure to win is still there," he said.

Akron Zips Top Ashland, 81-64; Len Paul Stars

All-American Len Paul became the greatest basketball scorer in Akron history Wednesday night when he raised his career total to 1,645 points.

The 6-foot-4 senior forward netted a game-high 26 points in leading the Zips to an 81-64 victory over Ashland to pass the mark of 1,630 points held by Billy Turner, who went on to star in the National Basketball Association.

"I'm real proud of him," exclaimed Akron Coach Wyatt Webb.

"I doubt if it'll be duplicated," Webb said, then laughed and added, "although we hope to get somebody who will."

Paul, a southpaw, scored 20 of his points in the second half and also led Akron in rebounds with 10 and assists with seven.

The game also set a dubious record for Ashland. It was the first time the team has lost two games in one season at home since the Charles Kates Gymnasium was opened seven years ago.

Akron, now 4-1, jumped off to early leads of 18-4 and 24-7, but Ashland fought back and had closed the gap to 34-30 in the second half when the Zips went on a 14-point scoring spree to move out of reach.

Tony Rice was top scorer for the Eagles, 1-2, with 25 points.

Other action Wednesday night saw Defiance whipping Earlham 97-84 in a Hoosier-Buckeye Conference game.

Cedarville edged Bluffton 82-81 as Bill Potter converted a three-point play with seconds remaining; Wooster, paced by Jeff Requarth with 30 points, defeated Malone 101-81; Mount Union trimmed Ohio Northern 46-41; Otterbein overpowered Findlay 89-58, and Urbana outlasted Wheeling, W. Va., 46-44.

Cincinnati Swords

Defeat Clippers, 2-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Swords didn't really expect it to work but they used a practiced blocked shot play to beat the Baltimore Clippers 2-1 Wednesday night.

The play in the third period called for Don Brennan to drive a shot at goalie Jim Shaw. Shaw, who made 45 saves in the contest, blocked the shot and Rick Dudley swooped by to slap the puck back under him into the net.

Denver Rockets Sold;

To Stay In City

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Rockets, sold to a partnership of five San Diego businessmen Wednesday, will remain in Denver and Alex Hannum will continue as president, general manager and head coach, it was announced by the new owners at a news conference.

The finalization of the sale of the Rockets, a charter franchise of the five-year-old American Basketball Association, was made possible after the ABA trustees gave their tentative approval Tuesday in Louisville, Ky.

Bench Is Expected

At Reds Practice

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds catcher Johnny Bench, the Most Valuable Player in the National League in 1972, is expected to report for spring training in February.

Bench, who also won the honor in 1970, is recovering from lung surgery. Doctors removed a lesion and pronounced the growth benign.

Dr. Luis Gonzalez, who performed the surgery, said the technique used did not require the removal of a rib or cutting the back muscles.

San Diego May Lose

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The words of Buzzie Bavasi four months ago don't appear to bother him today.

"I'm here to put an end to all the scare stories," the San Diego Padres' president and part owner told a sportswriters' luncheon Oct. 13. "The Padres definitely are staying in San Diego."

Today Bavasi was preparing for a meeting in New York Friday with Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn while rumors of the Padres' imminent transfer to Washington, D.C. under their present ownership buzzed about the baseball world.

The same rumors circulated last year when some of Washington's leading citizens were fuming about the move of the baseball Senators to Texas. Though 1971 attendance was the lowest in the Padres' three-year history, Bavasi and majority owner C. Arnholt Smith decided to keep the team here.

Attendance improved this year, from 549,085 to a club record of 644,272, but still well below Bavasi's stated break-even figure of 800,000. For the fourth straight year the Padres finished last in the National League West, although they unveiled several promising rookies and their first genuine star, slugging first baseman Nate Colbert.

Roanoke Top Small College Cage Team

Roanoke, which finished tied for 20th last year in the college division basketball poll, has made it all the way to the top this year.

The Salem, Va. college was awarded four first-place votes and accumulated 190 points to rank No. 1 in the season's first weekly Associated Press poll, announced Wednesday.

Winner of its first five games, Roanoke held a narrow margin over runnerup Stephen F. Austin, which captured five first place votes but only had an overall total of 176 points.

Stephen F. Austin, which finished No. 11 in last season's poll, has also won its first five games this season. Tennessee State started where it left off last year—in third place—while Eau Claire, ranked No. 8 last year, is fourth and Kentucky State, No. 2 last season, is fifth.

The teams receive votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The rest of the Top Ten has Louisiana Tech, No. 6; Albany State, Ga., No. 7; Augustana, Ill. No. 8; Old Dominion, No. 9, and California-Riverside, No. 10.

Name Don Kay As Class A Coach Of Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Don Kay, who has guided Marion Pleasant to the longest current Ohio victory streak of 38 games, was selected The Associated Press Class A State High School Football Coach of the Year today.

The 47-year-old Xavier University product led the Spartans to nine triumphs during the regular season, The AP Class A state crown and the first Ohio playoff title.

Pleasant, which has finished two-one-one in the last three AP polls, beat Zoarville Tuscarawas Valley 36-14 and Lorain Clearview 20-14 for the small school playoff championship.

Kay's selection, however, was based on the regular season only and came after district recommendations by a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Kay beat out John Davis of Xenia Wilson, Jim Villinger of Cedarville, Richard Beeler of Portsmouth Notre Dame, Ward Holdsworth of Newcomerstown, Norm Neidermeier of Ottawa Hills, Wayne Ross of Lorain Clearview, Jack Geddes of Lowelville

and Kirtland's Ray Carion.

Once an all-state tackle at Marion Harding, Kay played freshman football for Paul Brown at Ohio State before finishing his schooling at Xavier.

He's the only football coach Pleasant, a Marion County school, has known. His 11-year mark with the Spartans is 70 triumphs, 20 defeats and 2 ties.

Kay successfully rebuilt the Spartans this year after losing 15 starters from the 9-0-0 1971 squad.

Tigers Face MT In Key Cage Tilt

Circleville High School basketball team travels to Miami Trace Friday in the most important game of the young season and Saturday hosts Wehrle Memorial.

The winner of the game will be the leader in the South Central Ohio League.

Reace is led by the Jones boys, Muff and Pete, both 6 feet 3 inches tall and both starters a year ago.

Also back from that 1971-72 team is Glen Gifford, 5 feet 9 inches in stature. He is the playmaker of the team.

Size and rebounding this year is helped by the addition to the varsity of Dave Persinger, a 6-foot-4 205-pound junior. He was the leading scorer on last year's reserve team. Coach Jan Stauffer's Panthers always display a good offensive punch while maintaining a tight defense.

CHS coach John Lawhorn's cagers are boasting a 4-0 record, the only unbeaten team in the South Central Ohio League, and will be out to keep that record unblemished. Last week against Hillsboro, Dave Truex, Dan Graham and Greg Hoskins all hit in double figures in the scoring department while good scoring support was added by Robin Martin, Doug Radabaugh, Kris Kline and Glen Gillespie.

And this week's starting lineup will probably come from those seven players.

Vanderbilt's Commodores Defeat Mississippi, 59-57

Dutch van Breda Kolff would have loved it.

Jan, the 6-foot-7 son of the former collegiate and professional coach, threw in three straight 25-footers that played a major part in the seventh straight victory for the unbeaten Vanderbilt Commodores in college basketball Wednesday night.

Jan's trio of baskets early in the second half erased a fourpoint Mississippi lead and the Commodores went on to shade the Rebels 59-57.

"It was a helluva win," Vanderbilt Coach Roy Skinner said. "I don't mind telling you I was scared to death of Ole Miss, particularly considering that this was our fourth game in six days. I was just thankful that we were able to keep our poise."

The seventh victory in a row for the 13th-ranked Commodores in the Associated Press poll was a highlight of a night that also saw ninth-ranked Pennsylvania pull out a 54-53 squaker over its Philadelphia city rival, St. Joseph's, on a 10-foot jumper by sophomore Ron Haigler as time ran out.

In other games involving teams in the AP Top Twenty, No. 8 Southwestern Louisiana beat Mercer 111-104, No. 17 Brigham Young whipped Oklahoma State 96-69 and No. 20 Kansas State tripped Iowa 68-62.

Elsewhere it was Navy over Temple 66-58, Penn State over Duquesne 59-56, Boston College over St. Bonaventure 78-65, Harvard over Boston U. 102-92, Illinois over Iowa State 74-60, and New Mexico over New Mexico State 68-67.

Also, Butler over Western Kentucky in overtime 88-82, Bucknell over Colgate 76-52, Rochester over Cornell 85-79, Virginia Tech over Wm-Mary 98-77, U. of Pacific over Evansville 76-66, Arkansas over Georgia State 70-39 and San Jose State over Nevada-Reno 82-75.

Dwight Lamar's 35 points paced the Ragin' Cajuns over Mercer. James Brown threw in 36 for Harvard against BU and Kresimir Cosic scored 31 in

Bengals Busy At Work On Offense

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The "season pressure is off," but the Cincinnati Bengals are expecting a much improved offense Sunday from the Houston Oilers.

"Joe Wuldro, their offensive line coach is a good one," said Bengals defensive Coach Chuck Weber. "He's got some new people in that offensive line to give Dan Patronini some more protection—and don't think he can't throw the ball."

Weber said he is also worried about former Bengals running backs Fred

Willis and Paul Robinson, now teamed with Willie Rogers.

"Fred is one of their leading receivers too, now," Weber said. "I really look for them to try to control the ball with the running game, then raise up and throw one past us."

He said the Cincinnati practice this week showed a more relaxed atmosphere following the 27-24 loss to the Cleveland Browns which eliminated the Bengals from a shot at the playoffs. "But the pressure to win is still there," he said.

Ohio Horse Racing Dates Listed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Toledo area will have no thoroughbred meeting and Ohio horse racing will begin and finish later next year.

Those were the most significant points of the 1973 state racing dates allocated Wednesday by the Ohio Racing Commission.

A flop of winter thoroughbred racing has forced officials at Toledo Raceway Park to switch to harness horses in the springtime next year.

Thistledown in the Cleveland area will have the honor of launching the 1973 Ohio campaign and closing it.

The Summit Racing Club meeting opens March 14, and the Cranwood meeting closes Dec. 1 at the Cleveland track. The 1972 Ohio season started New Year's Day and wound up Nov. 20.

"You look around the league," Weber said, "and you'll notice a lot more backs are catching passes. There's more zone defending everywhere and the quarterbacks are going more to the backs when the receivers are covered."

Akron Zips Top Ashland, 81-64; Len Paul Stars

All-American Len Paul became the greatest basketball scorer in Akron history Wednesday night when he raised his career total to 1,645 points.

The 6-foot-4 senior forward netted a game-high 26 points in leading the Zips to an 81-64 victory over Ashland to pass the mark of 1,630 points held by Billy Turner, who went on to star in the National Basketball Association.

"I'm real proud of him," exclaimed Akron Coach Wyatt Webb.

"I doubt if it'll be duplicated," Webb said, then laughed and added, "although we hope to get somebody who will."

Paul, a southpaw, scored 20 of his points in the second half and also led Akron in rebounds with 10 and assists with seven.

The game also set a dubious record for Ashland. It was the first time the team has lost two games in one season at home since the Charles Kates Gymnasium was opened seven years ago.

Akron, now 4-1, jumped off to early leads of 18-4 and 24-7, but Ashland fought back and had closed the gap to 34-30 in the second half when the Zips went on a 14-point scoring spree to move out of reach.

Tony Rice was top scorer for the Eagles, 1-2, with 25 points.

Other action Wednesday night saw Defiance whipping Earlham 97-84 in a Hoosier-Buckeye Conference game.

Cedarville edged Bluffton 82-81 as Bill Potter converted a three-point play with seconds remaining; Wooster, paced by Jeff Requaht with 30 points, defeated Malone 101-81; Mount Union trimmed Ohio Northern 46-41; Otterbein overpowered Findlay 89-58, and Urbana outlasted Wheeling, W. Va., 46-44.

Cincinnati Swords Defeat Clippers, 2-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Swords didn't really expect it to work but they used a practiced blocked shot play to beat the Baltimore Clippers 2-1 Wednesday night.

The play in the third period called for Don Brennan to drive a shot at goalie Jim Shaw. Shaw, who made 45 saves in the contest, blocked the shot and Rick Dudley swooped by to slap the puck back under him into the net.

Denver Rockets Sold; To Stay In City

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Rockets, sold to a partnership of five San Diego businessmen Wednesday, will remain in Denver and Alex Hannum will continue as president, general manager and head coach, it was announced by the new owners at a news conference.

The finalization of the sale of the Rockets, a charter franchise of the five-year-old American Basketball Association, was made possible after the ABA trustees gave their tentative approval Tuesday in Louisville, Ky.

Bench Is Expected At Reds Practice

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds catcher Johnny Bench, the Most Valuable Player in the National League in 1972, is expected to report for spring training in February.

Bench, who also won the honor in 1970, is recovering from lung surgery. Doctors removed a lesion and pronounced the growth benign.

Dr. Luis Gonzalez, who performed the surgery, said the technique used did not require the removal of a rib or cutting the back muscle.

Name Don Kay As Class A Coach Of Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Don Kay, who has guided Marion Pleasant to the longest current Ohio victory streak of 38 games, was selected The Associated Press Class A State High School Football Coach of the Year today.

The 47-year-old Xavier University product led the Spartans to nine triumphs during the regular season, The AP Class A state crown and the first Ohio playoff title.

Pleasant, which has finished two-one-one in the last three AP polls, beat Zoarville Tuscarawas Valley 36-14 and Lorain Clearview 20-14 for the small school playoff championship.

Kay's selection, however, was based on the regular season only and came after district recommendations by a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Kay beat out John Davis of Xenia Wilson, Jim Villinger of Cedarville, Richard Beeler of Portsmouth Notre Dame, Ward Holdsworth of Newcomerstown, Norm Neidermeier of Ottawa Hills, Wayne Ross of Lorain Clearview, Jack Geddes of Lowville

and Kirtland's Ray Carion.

Once an all-state tackle at Marion Harding, Kay played freshman football for Paul Brown at Ohio State before finishing his schooling at Xavier.

He's the only football coach Pleasant, a Marion County school, has known. His 11-year mark with the Spartans is 70 triumphs, 20 defeats and 2 ties.

Kay successfully rebuilt the Spartans this year after losing 15 starters from the 9-0-0 1971 squad.

Last Of 'Flat Rats' Live Off Lake

NORTH ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — They live alone on this long, perfectly flat island, denuded of all but a few struggling trees, seining minnows in the summer and trapping muskrat in the fall and winter.

Bob and Bernetha Basney are the last of the "flat rats" and for 50 years they have made an isolated living on this tiny island off Lake St. Clair, 25 miles southeast of Detroit.

They know when the pickerel and perch are running and the hundreds of tiny bays in which they are hiding. "I like to hunt and fish and trap and so we stay here," says Basney, a small wiry man whose appearance defies his 67 years.

With no telephone on the state-owned island they lease, and a small aluminum boat or a snowmobile as the only means of getting back and forth, the Basneys rely on a citizens' band radio to keep in touch with the mainland.

Basney traps an average of 1,000 muskrats a year and sells the meat to restaurants. The pelts go to fur dealers for $2 each.

"A lot of people won't eat muskrat," says Mrs. Basney. "You know they think it's dirty or something. But it's a lot cleaner than a chicken."

"A muskrat will peel a root before he eats it and wash even an apple core before he puts it in his mouth."

"People might eat more of them if

Ohio Solons Set Record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 109th General Assembly, which has met longer than any other in Ohio history, plans to end its existence on Dec. 21.

A "sine die" resolution slated for that day will send it into the history books, 11 days ahead of a constitutionally-mandated session on New Years Day of the next Legislature.

The Ohio Constitution requires new legislatures to start on the first Monday of January—in this case Jan. 1.

Speaker-designate A.G. Lancione, D-30 Bellaire, who will preside as Democrats control the House for the first time in a dozen years, has promised only organizational activities "so no one will miss the Rose Bowl."

The classic pits Ohio State against Southern California at 4 p.m.

Republican Senate leader Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, said Wednesday that the Legislature will end bill considerations Friday of this week. "The Dec. 21 session will be only a bill-signing ceremony," Gray said.

Hoosier Farm Value Increases

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—The value of Indiana farm real estate is rising, according to agricultural statisticians at Purdue University.

They report that Hoosier farm land and building values increased 4 per cent in the year which ended last March 1. Total value of the farm land and buildings reached $7.7 billion, compared with $7.4 billion on March 1, 1971.

The average value of one acre of land, including buildings, was $437, a rise of $17 from a year earlier. Nationally, that ranked fourth, behind Illinois at $508, California at $499 and Ohio at $440.

they called them marsh rabbits like they do in some places," Basney added.

When he's not trapping muskrat, Basney collects minnows for bait dealers and leads ice fishermen to the best fishing spots in the flats.

Blanda Now Old Man Of Football

OAKLAND (AP) — George Blanda sounded surprised and a little pleased to learn that he is now the oldest person to play major league professional football in modern times.

The Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio, said Wednesday its records show that Blanda, who will be three months past his 45th birthday when he kicks for the Oakland Raiders Sunday against the Chicago Bears, has displaced Ben Agajanian as the greybeard of the record books.

"No, I'm not sensitive about being called an old man," said Blanda. "I'm kind of immune to that. I've been the oldest player on every team (Chicago, Houston and Oakland) I've played with since 1958."

"I feel it's a privilege and that I'm fortunate to still be able to play and to contribute."

Agajanian was 45, plus two months and 11 days when he played his final game Nov. 8, 1964, with the San Diego Chargers. He also was a kicking specialist.

The Hall of Fame lists the oldest player ever as John Nesser, who was 46 years and a little over four months when he played his final professional football game early in the 1921 NFL season with the Columbus Panhandlers.

Leroy Kelly Tops J.H. Johnson Mark

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — It went unnoticed by all but a few, but Cleveland Browns running back Leroy Kelly has reached another milestone in his illustrious career.

An 11-yard gain against the Cincinnati Bengals Saturday pushed the Morgan State College graduate into the fourth spot among all-time National Football League rushers.

Kelly, in only his ninth year, has accumulated 6,807 yards—four more than former Pittsburgh fullback John Henry Johnson racked up in a 13-year pro career.

Last Of 'Flat Rats' Live Off Lake

NORTH ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — They live alone on this long, perfectly flat island, denuded of all but a few struggling trees, seining minnows in the summer and trapping muskrat in the fall and winter.

Bob and Bernetha Basney are the last of the "flat rats" and for 50 years they have made an isolated living on this tiny island off Lake St. Clair, 25 miles southeast of Detroit.

They know when the pickerel and perch are running and the hundreds of tiny bays in which they are hiding.

"I like to hunt and fish and trap and so we stay here," says Basney, a small wiry man whose appearance defies his 67 years.

With no telephone on the state-owned island they lease, and a small aluminum boat or a snowmobile as the only means of getting back and forth, the Basneys rely on a citizens' band radio to keep in touch with the mainland.

Basney traps an average of 1,000 muskrats a year and sells the meat to restaurants. The pelts go to fur dealers for $2 each.

"A lot of people won't eat muskrat," says Mrs. Basney. "You know they think it's dirty or something. But it's a lot cleaner than a chicken."

"A muskrat will peel a root before he eats it and wash even an apple core before he puts it in his mouth."

"People might eat more of them if

Ohio Solons Set Record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 109th General Assembly, which has met longer than any other in Ohio history, plans to end its existence on Dec. 21. A "sine die" resolution slated for that day will send it into the history books, 11 days ahead of a constitutionally-mandated session on New Years Day of the next Legislature.

The Ohio Constitution requires new legislatures to start on the first Monday of January—in this case Jan. 1.

Speaker-designate A.G. Lancione, D-30 Bellaire, who will preside as Democrats control the House for the first time in a dozen years, has promised only organizational activities "so no one will miss the Rose Bowl."

The classic pits Ohio State against Southern California at 4 p.m.

Republican Senate leader Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, said Wednesday that the Legislature will end bill considerations Friday of this week. "The Dec. 21 session will be only a bill-signing ceremony," Gray said.

Hoosier Farm Value Increases

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—The value of Indiana farm real estate is rising, according to agricultural statisticians at Purdue University.

They report that Hoosier farm land and building values increased 4 per cent in the year which ended last March 1. Total value of the farm land and buildings reached $7.7 billion, compared with $7.4 billion on March 1, 1971.

The average value of one acre of land, including buildings, was $437, a rise of $17 from a year earlier. Nationally, that ranked fourth, behind Illinois at $508, California at $499 and Ohio at $440.

they called them marsh rabbits like they do in some places," Basney added.

When he's not trapping muskrat, Basney collects minnows for bait dealers and leads ice fishermen to the best fishing spots in the flats.

Blanda Now Old Man Of Football

OAKLAND (AP) — George Blanda sounded surprised and a little pleased to learn that he is now the oldest person to play major league professional football in modern times.

The Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio, said Wednesday its records show that Blanda, who will be three months past his 45th birthday when he kicks for the Oakland Raiders Sunday against the Chicago Bears, has displaced Ben Agajanian as the greybeard of the record books.

"No, I'm not sensitive about being called an old man," said Blanda. "I'm kind of immune to that. I've been the oldest player on every team (Chicago, Houston and Oakland) I've played with since 1958."

"I feel it's a privilege and that I'm fortunate to still be able to play and to contribute."

Agajanian was 45, plus two months and 11 days when he played his final game Nov. 8, 1964, with the San Diego Chargers. He also was a kicking specialist.

The Hall of Fame lists the oldest player ever as John Nesser, who was 46 years and a little over four months when he played his final professional football game early in the 1921 NFL season with the Columbus Panhandlers.

Leroy Kelly Tops

J.H. Johnson Mark

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — It went unnoticed by all but a few, but Cleveland Browns running back Leroy Kelly has reached another milestone in his illustrious career.

An 11-yard gain against the Cincinnati Bengals Saturday pushed the Morgan State College graduate into the fourth spot among all-time National Football League rushers.

Kelly, in only his ninth year, has accumulated 6,807 yards—four more than former Pittsburgh fullback John Henry Johnson racked up in a 13-year pro career.

three quarters of a mile long and two-tenths of a mile wide can be rugged. The Basneys have been ice and snowbound numerous times, and they live in constant fear of storms which could push lake waters through their small house.

"There is only six inches between the water and the top of my island," Basney said.

"There was one time when we were right down to eating nothing but pancakes and jelly," Basney recalled of one icebound winter.

"We didn't have cigarettes or coffee or anything."

Air Security Rules Spark Dispute

Airline travelers are caught in the middle of a dispute between local airport authorities and the federal government over who will pay for new security measures aimed at curbing hijackings.

The local officials say compliance with the new rules will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars they just don't have. They say the federal government should pick up the tab for the extra guards and equipment required.

The Transportation Department says it will contribute some money for screening devices, but claims it's up to the airlines and the airports to solve the cost problem.

And a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman says: "The people who benefit from it (the added security) should pay for it."

Outgoing Transportation Secretary John Volpe announced last week that beginning Jan. 5, airlines would have to inspect all carry-on luggage and screen every passenger with a metal detector. A month later, Volpe said, every airport must have local armed guards on duty before all flight departures.

An Associated Press survey showed that most airport officials agreed there is a need for stricter measures to stop hijackings and will try to comply with the federal regulations. But they disagreed about the exact methods to be used and said they did not know where the money would come from to pay for increased surveillance.

Don Whitman, manager of the Portland International Jetport in Maine, said the money to meet the federal standards "is just not in our budget and it's not in our next budget which has already been submitted."

Bill Ryan, manager of the Tulsa International Airport in Oklahoma, said Volpe's directive would cost an extra $140,000 per year and require the hiring of 17 to 24 guards in addition to the 15 already employed. "To pay for it we would have to take money from construction funds — for runways, taxi strips and so forth," Ryan said.

Ryan also indicated there might be problems finding guards. "It takes a while to train them," he said, "even if they are readily available. It (compliance with the directive) would be an extreme hardship for us"

A Transportation Department spokesman said that federal funds will be used to buy extra metal-detection equipment as part of a program already under way. But the spokesman said that the cost of luggage searches and guards will be the responsibility of airports and airlines.

Volpe has suggested that the costs be passed on to travelers, presumably in the form of higher fares.

Pentagon Papers Jury Dismissed; Delay Expected

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury which waited four months to hear the Pentagon papers case has been dismissed and selection of a new panel already has been delayed.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne dismissed the jury Tuesday and said he would consider new defense motions challenging the potential panel that will be picked to hear the case.

Byrne set Friday as the final day for attorneys to file motions and expressed hope selection of a new panel would start next week.

The 12 jurors and six alternates chosen last July had waited while the defense appealed a wiretap matter to higher courts. They were discharged after the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that it would be "foolish" to keep a jury sworn four months ago.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Husband Wants To Fix Her Clock

DEAR ABBY: I have always been a "night person." I seem to function much better during the night, and I sleep much better during the daylight hours.

If I get up before noon, I am completely exhausted all day. And if I try to go to sleep before 2 a.m., I toss and turn, and don't fall asleep until day-break.

What gripes me is that nobody believes there are really "night people." My biggest problem is my husband. He just hates to have me sleep until noon and says it is just plain laziness. You can't imagine how much this has complicated my life, Abby.

Is there a way I can change myself into a day person?

NIGHT PERSON

DEAR NIGHT: Yes. Drag yourself out of bed in the morning and pitch into those chores you formerly tackled at noon. I promise you that nobody will have a rock you to sleep at midnight. At first, you may encounter some difficulty in resetting your viological clock, but it can be done. The key word is "motivation."

DEAR ABBY: We are a married couple in our mid-40s with four teen-aged children, all living at home.

My husband's brother, Al, is 38 and divorced. Al has been living with a young divorced woman for the last two years. They make no secret of it. On occasions they came to visit us and I put her in the guest room and Al in a room with one of the boys. Al didn't like it, but I made it plain that what he did away from my home was none of my business, but I was not letting him share a bedroom with his girl friend in my home before my teen-aged children.

My husband says the kids are wise and I am being stupid and hypocritical. Maybe I am, but I wouldn't let any of my own children sleep with a sweetheart under my roof, and nobody else is going to do it either. And if they don't like it, they can check into a motel.

I am not saying my own children won't one day decide on a living arrangement like the uncle and his girl friend have now, but when they are set the standards in my own home. Am I right or not?

DEAR K.: Right . . . and right on! DEAR ABBY: You advised BETTY THE BOOKKEEPER who was being pinched and pawed by an old geezer in the office to tell the boss if Casanova got out of line again.

Well, I had the same problem where I worked and after putting up with an old geezer's advances for a year, I finally told my boss.

Somebody was promptly fired, all right. I was! Casanova said I was imagine things that he never touched me.

It was my word against his, and I was told I had to have proof. Abby, where could I get "proof" of such actions? He never molested me in the presence of witnesses.

It was suggested that I was mentally "off" and they gave me my notice. And after 15 years with this company. I lost retirement and pension benefits, which meant a lot to me at age 52.

I'm sure the same situation exists in plenty of other offices. So please tell other victims in a spot like this to alert a few coworkers to keep their eyes open, because without witnesses, they'll be accused of having hallucinations. V.E. IN WEST VA.

DEAR V. E.: Thanks for the suggestion. The office Casanova will cuss you out, but their victims will bless you.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman who said she had to wait for romance until after Johnny Carson. Well, she's lucky. At least Johnny Carson is on almost every night.

I've been married a year and my husband never seemed to want anything. Don't tell me to send him to a doctor. He says he's all right, he's just too tired. He never was too tired before we were married. Sign me. . . LOVELESS IN WEST VA.

The Transportation Department says it will contribute some money for screening devices, but claims it's up to the airlines and the airports to solve the cost problem.

And a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman says: "The people who benefit from it (the added security) should pay for it."

Outgoing Transportation Secretary John Volpe announced last week that beginning Jan. 5, airlines would have to inspect all carry-on luggage and screen every passenger with a metal detector. A month later, Volpe said, every airport must have local armed guards on duty before all flight departures.

An Associated Press survey showed that most airport officials agreed there is a need for stricter measures to stop hijackings and will try to comply with the federal regulations. But they disagreed about the exact methods to be used and said they did not know where the money would come from to pay for increased surveillance.

Don Whitman, manager of the Portland International Jetport in Maine, said the money to meet the federal standards "is just not in our budget and it's not in our next budget which has already been submitted."

Bill Ryan, manager of the Tulsa International Airport in Oklahoma, said Volpe's directive would cost an extra $140,000 per year and require the hiring of 17 to 24 guards in addition to the 15 already employed. "To pay for it we would have to take money from construction funds — for runways, taxi strips and so forth," Ryan said.

Ryan also indicated there might be problems finding guards. "It takes a while to train them," he said, "even if they are readily available. It (compliance with the directive) would be an extreme hardship for us"

A Transportation Department spokesman said that federal funds will be used to buy extra metal-detection equipment as part of a program already under way. But the spokesman said that the cost of luggage searches and guards will be the responsibility of airports and airlines.

Volpe has suggested that the costs be passed on to travelers, presumably in the form of higher fares.

Pentagon Papers

Jury Dismissed;

Delay Expected

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury which waited four months to hear the Pentagon papers case has been dismissed and selection of a new panel already has been delayed.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne dismissed the jury Tuesday and said he would consider new defense motions challenging the potential panel that will be picked to hear the case.

Byrne set Friday as the final day for attorneys to file motions and expressed hope selection of a new panel would start next week.

The 12 jurors and six alternates chosen last July had waited while the defense appealed a wiretap matter to higher courts. They were discharged after the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that it would be "foolish" to keep a jury sworn four months ago.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dandy Don Meredith first learned to fly when he was the Dallas Cowboys' quarterback. Linebackers gave him the lessons when the Cowboys' blocking fell apart.

Now he's learning to fly again, but this time in a light plane. It's all part of a series of television commercials he's doing in a national learn-to-fly campaign sponsored by Cessna Aircraft Co.

The lessons began this week in Grand Prairie, Tex., after he wrapped up his chores with Frank Gifford and Howard Cosell on the ABC television network's Monday night pro football show.

Meredith says flying is something he always wanted to do. Is he looking forward to it with white knuckles?

"Well, kind of, I guess," he said in an interview before Monday night's game between Oakland and the New York Jets.

"But I'm not really afraid or apprehensive about it. I'm anxious to get it done. The only reservation I have is that we're working on a tight time schedule."

"I'd really like to enjoy flying and I think I will. But to complete the commercials on schedule we'll have to get them done by the end of the year. So I'll really have to get on the stick when I get back home and fly every day."

The commercials are scheduled to start appearing April 1 on all three television networks for at least 13 weeks. In them, Dandy Don will be shown progressing from fledgling birdman to solo performer at a Cessna pilot center.

When will he get his private pilot's license?

Recover Stolen Painting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After two years and a possible trip across the Atlantic Ocean, a stolen Raphael masterpiece valued at more than $1 million has been recovered here, police say.

Officers said Wednesday they recovered the painting Tuesday night at the offices of an investment company. Three men were taken into custody in connection with the theft.

The painting, a "Madonna and Child" by Raphael Sanzio in about 1500, was taken from the Los Angeles home of Charles Elkins, an investment broker, on Sept. 12, 1970.

The Raphael belonged to Elkins' brother-in-law, William Boyd, a San Francisco attorney.

Officers said they believed the painting may have been taken to England to be sold and then returned to Los Angeles. Paper wrappings with British customs stamps on them were found with the painting.

An employee of the investment company, Gloria McMurdie, told police she was approached by men who wanted to sell the painting.

Police posed as interested buyers and arranged a late night meeting with the men to discuss a sale.
